Soviet Breaks U. S. Wheat Price, Legge Charges

SECRETARY SAYS PROBE PROVES 'RED' INFLUENCE

Head of Agriculture Department Reveals Finding in Message to President of Chicago Group.

MARKET LEADER ASKED FOR ADVICE

Federal Official Seeks Way To Halt Practice Injurious to American Farmers.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—(AP)—A charge that the Russian government has been selling wheat short upon the Chicago market, contributing to the fall in price and to the injury of American farmers, was made today by Secretary Hyde.

In a telegram to John A. Bunnell, president of the Chicago Board of Trade, the agriculture department chief said an inquiry had established the short selling "beyond all question of doubt." He asked what provision the exchange has made or can make "for the protection of our American farmers from such activities."

"There can be no question," the telegram continued, "that this selling has contributed to the fall in the price of wheat and to the injury of American farmers now engaged in their intensive marketing season. Obviously it would be impossible for Soviet Russia to deliver grain to Chicago over our tariff for 42 cents a bushel."

Secretary Hyde said the telegram was based upon the admission of the All-Russian Textile Syndicate, of New York, that it had sold 5,000,000 bushels of wheat short upon the Chicago market. This syndicate, he continued, is a subsidiary of the Amtorg Trading Corporation, the Russian commercial organization in this country.

The investigation, which was inspired by newspaper articles and rumors, was made by Dr. J. W. T. Dubel, administrator of the grain futures act.

Hope was expressed by Hyde that the grain exchange would make regulations "guaranteeing a fair price for the American crop."

Pending advice from the Chicago Board of Trade official, the secretary declined to comment upon what action would be taken.

Daniel Sully Dies at Home In California

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Sept. 19.—(AP)—Daniel J. Sully, 73, once hailed as a cotton king and "baron of the south," died at his home today. He won his fame as the result of a corner in cotton in 1904 when he was a cotton operator in Hartford, Conn.

Sully is survived by his widow and three children, among whom is Beth Sully Evans, first wife of Douglas Fairbanks, film actor, Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., her son, and one of those at the bedside of his grandfather this morning.

Relatives recalled that the "cotton king" angered over the marriage of his daughter to the then young film actor, for many years refused to have anything to do with the young couple.

Funeral plans have not been made.

Leader Dies

Joseph W. Humphries, prominent lawyer and civic leader, who died Friday.

J. W. HUMPHRIES TAKEN BY DEATH

Prominent Atlanta Attorney Dies of Attack of Pneumonia.

Joseph W. Humphries, one of the most widely-known attorneys in Atlanta and a brother of Superior Court Judge John D. Humphries, died at the latter's home in Morningside Friday afternoon after an illness of about ten days.

Mr. Humphries was stricken more than a week ago and pneumonia developed, causing his death. He was 59 years of age.

Few members of the local bar enjoyed a larger number of friends than did Mr. Humphries, who, in addition to his reputation as a lawyer, was known for his keen interest and activity in educational, literary and church endeavors.

For many years he was a member of the Fulton county board of education, in which capacity he always took a leading part in progressive legislation looking to the betterment of the county school system, and was widely known among teachers and former pupils of the county as a champion of educational opportunities for children of every class. He was mayor of Hapeville at one time, holding the post for four years.

Mr. Humphries was an active member of the Writers' Club, and one of his most enjoyable hobbies was poetry, which he composed from time to time and which possessed outstanding literary merit. His deep interest in poetry led him to join the Bobby Burns Club of Atlanta, in the affairs of which he became a leader, having been elected its president in 1928, in which capacity he served with distinction.

Mr. Humphries was born in Clayton county and attended the University of Georgia, from which he was graduated in 1893. Following his graduation he began active practice of law in Atlanta, with his brother, now Judge Humphries, as partner. This partnership was maintained until Popular Vote Plurality of 1,199 Basis of Action in Race for Comptroller-General.

Harrison Retains Macon Attorney

MACON, Ga., Sept. 19.—(AP)—Pope F. Brock, Macon lawyer, has been employed to represent W. B. Harrison in connection with an expected contest over the vote for comptroller general in Wilkinson county, it is reported here. Mr. Brock refused to discuss the matter until tomorrow.

Adjutant General Homer C. Parker will be declared the nominee for comptroller general at the state convention to be held next month on the basis of a tie in county unit votes between Parker and W. B. Harrison, the incumbent, and a popular vote plurality for Parker of 1,199, according to a statement issued Friday by G. Ed Maddox, chairman of the state democratic executive committee, and its secretary, Mrs. Bessie Anderson.

The statement accompanied the announcement of the official consolidated vote of the primary, in which the results in all races were given. This consolidation gives both Parker and Harrison 186 county unit votes, with Parker having a popular vote of 68,504 and Harrison 68,308.

Official Winner. On the basis of this consolidation by the state executive committee, Parker, under the rules of the primary, will be declared winner of the nomination at the state convention at Macon October 7, unless official notice of a contest is filed.

Comptroller General Harrison, when reached at his home Friday night, had no comment to make upon the statement issued by the state committee. "I have nothing to say," was his only reply to requests for an indication of what course he would pursue.

Should he take no action, the Macon convention would proceed with the ratification of Parker's nomination. If he decided to contest the nomination, it would then be necessary for the convention to designate the winner.

Adjutant General Parker could not be reached for a comment, as he left Atlanta Friday for Gainesville.

The figures were released after an

JONES IS SEED AT HEAD OF LIST IN MERION BATTLE

U. S. G. A. Names Ten 'Leading' Players; Frank Getty Expects Bob Will Capture Crown.

BY FRANK GETTY. United News Sports Editor. PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Sept. 19.—(UN)—Preparing for the crucial test of his golfing career, during which he has won all honors there and now seeks to combine them into a single season, Bobby Jones today had only one worry.

Too many people wanted to come along and help. The Atlanta, who is here in quest of the national amateur championship, was so beset by well-wishers today that he slipped away from the throngs at Ardmore, scene of the tournament, and played a practice round at Pine Valley.

"It's great to have everyone wishing you success," Bob said, "but it's hard to concentrate on your game when you have to shake hands every 30 seconds or so."

Is in Race Form. And so, with Jess Sweetser, Cyril Tolley and Tommy Bourne, the English entrants, Jones went around the east's most difficult and intriguing course, according to Bob's estimate. It may not have been the most satisfactory practice in the world, but at least he was away from the crowd for a few hours.

The Atlanta, who already holds the British open and amateur titles and the American open, appeared in rare form for his attempt to bag the last of the major golf championships next week.

"I haven't played a great deal since Interlachen," Jones said. His business affairs have kept him from the links and he wisely has let them. Only the possibility of his being over-looked could keep Bobby from being an overwhelming favorite at the Merion Cricket Club Monday.

That the Atlanta will have stiff

M. R. McClean Dying From Suicidal Shot

SAVANNAH, Ga., Sept. 19.—(AP)—Malcolm R. McClean, 42, son of a prominent and wealthy family, is in a critical condition late Friday night at a local hospital, suffering from a bullet wound in the right chest.

He will probably not live through the night, the attending physician says. McClean had been in ill health for a long time and had returned to Savannah about a month ago from a hospital. His wife, formerly Emily Holt, who comes of an equally prominent family of Louisville, Ky., has been visiting during the summer with her mother in Kentucky.

McClean was found lying on the floor of a bedroom at his home at Grinnell's Point by a neighbor, who was notified by the colored butler after hearing a shot fired.

COURT URGES "SPANKING," SETS $1,000 BOND. Held in bail of $1,000 for possession of approximately 100 quarts of liquor, ranging from gin to champagne, a 34-year-old mother, with a 16-month-old baby in her arms, told United States Commissioner E. S. Griffith quite blandly that she bought the high grade liquor in Savannah from a friend who was a member of the Georgia public service commission for the cities of Columbus, Albany, Americus, Cordele, Tifton and surrounding territory.

An order of the commission directing the Georgia Power Company to make the rates applicable to these communities in line with rates charged elsewhere in Georgia follows the purchase by the power company of the plants of the Columbus Electric & Power Company and the South Georgia Power Company.

While rates had been fixed for communities served by the Georgia Power Company, the new schedule was ordered applicable to customers served by the Columbus and South Georgia companies, so that all territory served by the parent company and subsidiaries would be uniform.

R. E. L. SPENCE, JR., INDICTED ON THREE FORGERY COUNTS

Former Solicitor of Albany City Court Charged With Using Fictitious Names To Obtain Money

ALBANY, Ga., Sept. 19.—(AP)—It was announced here today that the Dougherty county grand jury has indicted R. E. L. Spence, Jr., former solicitor of the city county of Albany, on three forgery counts. It is alleged that the former court official forged mortgages to property for fictitious persons on buildings in Albany, forwarded forged loan applications and real photographs of the property to a loan company, and that when the checks for the loans came, he forged the names of the fictitious persons on the checks.

Spence was missing more than a year before it was finally learned that he was serving an enlistment in the army under an assumed name at Laredo, Texas, in April 1929. He surrendered to officers at that place at that time and announced that he was willing to return to Albany and face any charges that might be pending against him, but Sheriff O. F. Tarver was forced to wire the Texas officers that he held no warrant or indictment against the former Albany man, and Spence was returned to the army. It is understood that he later secured a discharge from the military service.

Spence left his wife and young son, R. E. L. Spence, III, when he disappeared in 1927, and it is understood that he was in contact with him. His office was declared vacant after a few months, and M. B. Peacock has been elected to succeed him.

SPENCE WILL RETURN TO ALBANY AT ONCE

MIAMI, Fla., Sept. 19.—(AP)—R. E. L. Spence, Jr., indicted on three forgery counts in Albany, Ga., will leave Miami Saturday morning for Albany, James E. Yonge, attorney, with whom he is associated, said last night.

Spence is not practicing law in Florida, but is preparing to take the bar examination. Yonge said Spence wanted that to get over with. That he told Yonge about the misdeeds with which he is charged when he obtained employment and Yonge and Spence, either, a resident of Georgia, have been working out an adjustment, Yonge said.

"This thing came out," Yonge added, "through a change in the ownership of the bank holding the loan. A settlement has been in negotiation and will be made within the next few days."

Spence joined the army under an assumed name and one day went to his commanding officer and told him he was wanted in Albany and that he was leaving the army. That was when the sheriff informed the army that he was not wanted.

"He was honorably discharged and living an exemplary life. The indictments are a surprise because we expected to have the whole thing cleared up in a few days," he said.

$5,000 in Jewels Stolen at Hotel

Wife of Wealthy Bostonian Robbed Here of Diamond and Platinum Rings and Watches.

A downtown jewel robbery in which the wife of a Boston towel magnate lost diamond and platinum valuables worth $5,000 to a thief or thieves who entered the suite occupied by the couple twice within the last three weeks, was reported to police Friday night.

Revelation of the robberies came when city detectives were called in after efforts of private hotel investigators to locate the thief had failed. On the first trip, Mrs. T. C. Goodsell, whose husband is vice president of a nation-wide chain of towel concerns, lost diamond-studded jewelry valued at more than $2,000. The loss, entailing a sentimental attachment, besides the monetary value of the jewelry, so shocked Mrs. Goodsell that she was compelled to spend several days in a local hospital, her husband said.

Valuable Jewelry Taken. The initial robbery resulted in the loss of a valuable wrist watch, diamond ring and diamond stick pin, it was revealed. Nothing was said to city police in the hope that efforts of hotel investigators would be able to apprehend the thief.

Upon Mrs. Goodsell's return to her hotel suite Sunday night, it was reported, a greater shock awaited her when she found that during her absence the thief or thieves again had visited her room and had taken a number of other pieces of diamond and platinum jewelry from a trunk. This loss amounted to approximately $3,000, it was said, and articles stolen included a diamond sunburst brooch, diamond stickpin, a string of pearls, a lavalliere and several diamond rings.

In revealing the two robberies Mr. Goodsell told police that the robbers had apparently been content to take their loot in small parcels, overlooking more than $15,000 worth of other jewelry owned by his wife.

Here for Two Months. Mr. and Mrs. Goodsell have been guests of the hotel for more than two months, it was said. He maintains a residence in Boston, but the couple visit Atlanta every year, spending several months here, it was said.

One person, it was stated, already is under suspicion, but neither Mr. Goodsell nor the police would indicate the identity of the suspect. The hotel manager said Friday night that he intended to engage private detectives to investigate both robberies, and, in addition, city detectives will conduct a probe of their own.

The reported robbery is one of the largest ever reported by a guest in an Atlanta hotel. Records at police headquarters show that no jewelry robberies have been active in Atlanta in several years and that hotel robberies generally are few and far between. Activity of jewel thieves working in hotels is more prevalent in the eastern metropolitan centers, it was pointed out, and it was recalled here Friday night that Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Heinz, prominent Atlantans, at present are suing a hotel in New Jersey for $125,000 in connection with the robbery of Mrs. Heinz' trunk of many thousands of dollars worth of diamond jewelry in 1928.

ELLIS INDICTED BY FULTON JURY

Embezzlement of $6,000 Charged Following Audit of Books.

E. E. Ellis, a central figure in the councilmanic investigation recently into the indictment of former Councilman W. C. McLendon, was indicted by the grand jury Friday on a charge of having embezzled $6,000 from Crawford & Slaten Co., engineering contractors, of which he formerly was secretary-treasurer.

A true bill returned by the investigating body alleges that Ellis appropriated the money to his own use. It is set forth that the alleged embezzlement was discovered recently when an audit revealed that Ellis was short in his accounts. The date of the alleged offense was given as August 1.

Ellis was the principal witness in the councilmanic impeachment investigation of McLendon, which the indicted councilman demanded in open court August 3. During the early stage of the hearing Ellis appeared before the councilmanic committee and testified to paying McLendon a sum of money made up by several firms to secure payment of a street, the alleged payment having been made after McLendon's nomination to council but before he actually took his seat in that body.

Paid McLendon $600. At the first hearing of the committee which he was summoned to appear before, Ellis said he had paid McLendon $600 for the paving of a street in the tenth ward without knowledge of what the money was to be used for but that in his opinion he believed McLendon was to use the entire sum for himself.

On August 13 Ellis again was summoned to appear before the councilmanic committee and when he failed to appear he was ordered arrested. The following day he appeared and testified again. The second summons to appear was issued when Alderman G. Everett Millican, of the 10th ward, who was a member of the investigating group, told the committee that Ellis had informed him that McLendon told him (Ellis) that councilmen did not work "for nothing" and that he (McLendon) would have to divide the money.

On the strength of this statement Millican demanded that Ellis be summoned to reappear and Ed A. Stephens, assistant solicitor general, also was summoned. Mr. Stephens told the committee that Ellis had told his attaches in charge of the grand jury investigation into McLendon's activities that the $600 was to be distributed to members of council. When he appeared for the second time before the committee Ellis testified that his testimony before the body on the previous occasion was incorrect. He corroborated the testimony of Stephens and Millican.

On the strength of Ellis' testimony McLendon, on August 14, was declared guilty by the councilmanic committee, which recommended indictment. Such action, however, was forestalled when McLendon proffered his resignation, August 18, which was accepted by council.

McLendon has yet to stand trial on the bribery indictment returned against him by the grand jury investigating graft and corruption in the municipal government.

New Trial Appeal By Saunders Heard

Decision on the motion of ex-Councilman W. E. Saunders for a new trial on bribery charges was taken under advisement Friday by Judge Virgil B. Moore of Fulton superior court. The motion was argued during the afternoon.

Saunders was given 24 months and a $1,000 fine on three counts of bribery. He formerly represented the twelfth ward in council.

Dr. J. E. Turner, ex-alderman from the second ward, Thursday was denied a new trial by Judge Moore and is appealing the case. Turner was convicted of bribery.

Raid and Subsequent Gunplay Uncovers Enemy in Ranks of Federal and City Officers.

OWNER OF PLANT CANNOT BE FOUND

Evidence Points to Tip-Off of Raid; Killers Had Waited in Office for Long Time.

ELIZABETH, N. J., Sept. 19.—(UN)—A dozen gunmen waited in ambush within the Sunrise brewery here today, disarmed a raiding party of seven dry agents and shot and killed one of the invaders.

The gangsters, who apparently had been forewarned of the raid, then made good an escape.

John G. Fiennelli, 44, agent attached to the Philadelphia office, was the agent who lost his life. The raiders were led by Robert Young, special supervisor for breweries in Pennsylvania and New Jersey. One agent was left outside while the others followed Young through the machine room and into a courtyard. On the other side of this open space they entered a boiler room.

Agents Disarmed. Here Young called a halt and divided his party, ordering his men to round up the brewery employees and bring them to the boiler room.

Before this order could be obeyed the gunmen entered. Presumably they had been waiting in the brewery office across the street and had crossed stealthily on a bridge connecting the two sections of the plant.

The embattled "defenders" had their weapons drawn and the agents were completely surprised. One gunman grabbed a federal man, standing at his back with a revolver in hand, ordered the others to line up and be searched. The agent thus served as a perfect shield in case one of the agents tried to fire his revolver.

The disarming went on without interruption until one gangster noticed that Fiennelli was standing a little apart from the rest. "There's Fiennelli!" he shouted. "Give it to him!"

Shots rang out and Fiennelli pitched forward. A firing squad, though, in Fiennelli had fired two shots in an effort to save his life, but an examination of his revolver showed it had not been exploded.

As the agent lay on the floor, the gunmen fled from the boiler room and crossed the courtyard. At the street door they encountered E. C. Rainfall, the agent who had been left on guard. They took his weapon from him and then ran around the

Servants Entertained By British Royal Pair

LONDON, Sept. 19.—(AP)—While a tempest roared around the turrets of Balmoral castle, Scotland, last evening, its ballroom was the scene of a brilliant gathering, assembled at the king and queen's periodical ball for the servants of their Scottish estate, Deeside.

Tartan kilts for the men and Tartan decorations for the women were the order of the evening. His majesty wore kilts and so did the Prince of Wales, who flew from Le Touquet, where he was playing golf, to London and caught a night train from there to the castle. So, also, did the Duke of Gloucester and Prince George. King George did not dance but personally watched his guests and talked with them. Queen Mary danced several times, sometimes partnered with her game keepers and other men servants. There were no modern dances, only such as waltzes, quadrilles and reels.

FINEST FOR FINE BAKING

WHITE LILY FLOUR

Couldn't be finer

if each Wheat Kernel were selected by Hand!

Making White Lily is a fine art, for only perfect milling, of the best winter wheat, can yield such marvelously fine flour. The wheat is cleaned and re-cleaned by special machinery. Other special machinery selects the most delicate portions of each wheat kernel for White Lily Flour. That is why there is such a difference between White Lily and the average flour—why for half a century it has been preferred for finest cakes, tender pastries and Southern biscuits. Truly, White Lily couldn't be finer if each wheat kernel were selected by hand. Every hour during its milling, White Lily is carefully tested in the mill's model laboratory-kitchen, to make sure that every sack of it is uniformly pure, white and fluffy—suited to your most particular bakings. Your grocer carries White Lily in both plain and self-rising. Try White Lily in today's baking.

SENATE WIPES SLATE OF HUEY LONG CLEAN

1929 Impeachment Proceedings Against Governor Terminated.

BATON ROUGE, La., Sept. 19.—(AP)—The vindication which Governor Huey P. Long sought and gained at the polls ten days ago in his successful race for the United States senate, was counteracted by the Louisiana legislature today through formal termination of the 1929 impeachment proceedings against the chief executive.

The proceedings were definitely dropped as the state senate, without dissenting vote, approved a motion

Senator Dore, of Evangeline, one of the governor's leaders from southwest Louisiana, placing the senate on record as "recognizing" the impeachment-abandonment resolution adopted by the house last Wednesday, which dismissed the house prosecuting board and requested the senate to drop the seven indictments of "high crimes and misdemeanors in office" which have been pending in the senate awaiting trial for more than a year.

The governor's scheduled trial in 1929 on the charges voted by the house was ended at its beginning through a round robin of 15 senators who declared they would not convict the executive "regardless of the evidence" as they believed the house impeachment investigation irregular.

The abandonment was accomplished in a little more than two minutes in the senate, the upper chamber taking that time out from speeding through the governor's $100,000,000 public improvement legislative program, for the passage of which the present special session was convened.

Memphis Opens 'War' Aimed at Loan Sharks

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 19.—(AP)—The Shelby county grand jury returned indictments today against 10 men charged with illegal operation of small loan businesses without state licenses. "This is just the start of our fight to wipe out the city's loan sharks," said County Attorney-General McClain. "The men indicted today are the big shots. We hope to have as many more indicted next week."

McClain said those indicted will be prosecuted for failure to qualify with the state superintendent of banking, failure to obtain state licenses and failure to pay a $50 license fee required by the state. Six-month work-house sentences or fines follow conviction.

McClain said many small loan firms and individuals dealing in such credit charge many times the local 42 percent interest, which is legal in Tennessee for loans of less than $300. This is the culmination of annual interest and interest on balances left by periodic payments.

Eight of those indicted today were surrendered by their attorneys and made $1,000 bonds soon after the jury reported. Names on the indictments were R. A. Morris, J. H. Christopher, J. W. Koen, E. H. Koen, D. H. Morris, W. C. Wilson, W. C. Harrison, J. B. Reeves, P. A. Bell and J. J. Moore.

CHICAGO, Sept. 19.—(AP)—Wilbur Glenn Voliva, overseer, and the entire city administration of Zion City, Ill., were named in a suit to quit title, filed in federal court today by former United States Senator James Hamilton Lewis.

The bill, in behalf of four property owners, charges that Voliva has appropriated for his own use various parks and city property, some of which he has subdivided. The amount of the litigation is estimated at $10,000,000 and Voliva's prospective profit at $2,000,000.

The latter was taken to Providence hospital, Washington, with a bullet wound in her head said to be serious. Mrs. Gamble surrendered to county officers and told them her husband, Joseph Gamble, 39, a fisherman and beekeeper, and the girl had been "going together" for weeks.

Smith, who died January 15, 1929, leaving a net estate of $820,254. A transfer tax appraisal was filed today. California Democrats Cling to Dry Plank

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 19.—(AP)—California's democratic party has taken a definite stand for the enforcement of the eighteenth amendment, "and all laws pursuant thereto."

The plank was written into the platform after two hours of bitter struggle at the state convention yesterday. Speakers objected to the party "pussyfooting" on prohibition and declared Milton K. Young, nominee for governor, wanted a dry plank in the platform.

MECHANICAL "LUNG" KEEPING GIRL ALIVE

CHICAGO, Sept. 19.—(AP)—For seven days Frances McGann, of Alton, Ill., a student nurse in a Chicago hospital, has been thanking a glass and aluminum "lung" for her life.

Her breathing muscles numbed by infantile paralysis September 11, she was sinking rapidly when physicians placed her in a respirator which has made her lungs draw in the breath of life and exhale it. The respirator incloses all her body, except her head, which rests on a pillow outside. A rubber diaphragm fits closely around her neck and prevents leakage of the compressed air introduced into and withdrawn from the cabinet. Only the hum of an electric motor reveals that the mechanical lung is a machine and operating.

Physicians said Miss McGann would have died last Friday if she had not been placed in the respirator. Today they said she has a good chance to recover.

Canadian Commons Okays Tariff Hike

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 19.—(UN)—The government's upward tariff revision legislation was approved by the house of commons late today.

An opposition amendment condemning the tariff increases on the ground that they would increase the cost of living without relieving unemployment was defeated.

Attractive Service for Simple Foods

BY JESSIE MARIE DeBOTH

Attractive service adds so much to simple foods that it pays to invest in a few special utensils for that purpose.

Various types of molds are displayed enticingly in the shops but the housewife should think twice before buying novelties. An expensive item that is rarely used becomes a luxury, but the same money put into an article of many uses proves a wise expenditure, provided it really is used. Every housewife can recall certain utensils bought with pleasure, used a few times, and then put away on a high shelf to rest indefinitely, or perhaps discarded entirely. To avoid such errors it is well to consider carefully the practical value of such a purchase. One of the most popular forms at present is the ring or border mold. It is shown in several sizes and can be had in enameled ware, aluminum or tin. A medium size mold has an immense variety of uses, serving from four to eight people, according to the amount and richness of the content. Now one can get either at a reasonable price. Make sure that the surface is smooth and the edges straight to permit of easy removal of contents. For jellies and creams the mold is first rinsed with cold water and drained. For all baked or steamed foods thorough oiling is required. Waxed paper placed over the top will prevent a wet surface on steamed puddings, or too crusty a top on baked foods. A small spatula is indispensable in loosening contents as it bends to fit the curve. With these two utensils and a larger pan to hold the ring when the water bath is indicated, the possibilities of pleasant variations are almost endless. An attractive chop plate is desirable for service, but any platter of suitable size will do. Let us consider the hot dishes first. Fish, cooked or canned, may be molded with soft crumbs or a thick sauce, allowing half as much of the latter as fish, and a beaten egg to each cup and one-half of material. Yolks of eggs enrich and the whites act as a builder, so, if desirable, the latter can be used alone and yolks saved for the sauce. With following recipe as a guide, one may use crab meat, flaked salmon, trout, white fish or lobster, or perhaps a mixture of flavorful fish. Any chopped, cooked meat might be substituted with different seasonings, or your favorite meat loaf might be baked in ring form and filled with a savory sauce, such as tomato, creole, brown celery, tangy horseradish or a spicy mustard sauce. For the fish loaf use two cups of flaked fish free of skin and bones (use two forks to prepare it) two chopped hard cooked eggs and a teaspoon of anchovy paste. Make a thick sauce with three tablespoons butter, four of flour and a cup of milk. Season with salt and pepper, blend with fish and add two egg whites, slightly beaten. Pack into the buttered mold, cover with oiled paper (easily held in place with a rubber band or a piece of twine) and steam for 30 minutes. This may be done in a pan of water, covered, in the oven, in a regular steamer over the fire, or in the pan itself if the mold rests on several folds of paper to keep contents from sticking. The cover must fit close to hold in the steam. An agreeable sauce for this loaf is made by creaming one-fourth cup of butter with two egg yolks, then adding slowly a tablespoon of lemon juice, seasoning of salt and pepper and a third of a cup of boiling water. Stir constantly over boiling water until as thick as custard, add a little cayenne, some minced parsley, and small pieces of tomato, preferably fresh. A cream sauce with the egg yolks may take the place of this richer and more sophisticated mixture, unless one is expert in such matters.

In turning out the contents of a ring mold slip the spatula carefully under and all the way around the mold. Loosen well at one spot. Then invert gently onto the serving dish which is hot or cold, according to usage. Allow a few minutes for contents to drop, tapping gently if necessary. Haste in turning out may ruin the appearance. However, if the top is broken at all, either cover the places with suitable garnish or pour some sauce over the top as though an intentional finish. Any small cracks may be coaxed together with the spatula.

Simple foods become quite pretentious with ring mold aid, and small amounts are extended by this method. Plain hash in the border mold is truly glorified when filled with a gay vegetable like buttered peas, or parsley sprigged carrots. Quarter of tomato as a border complement the golden carrot filling, or cauliflower flowerets may surround the best centered ring. Half of stuffed egg always arouse interest when alternated with spicy pickles. Cucumber sauce is exceptionally good with a fish loaf. A rich brown sauce containing chopped pickle and capers is fine with the meat loaf. Buttered noodles or flaky rice may surround a meat ring with a vegetable in the center making a one dish dinner course. Buttered peas, diced turnip, beans (green or lima) and small onions are all excellent fillers.

Another variation for hot meat service is to pack the mold with cooked rice, noodles or mashed potato, which has been bound together first with beaten egg. Ten minutes in the water bath sets the egg and the tender ring is filled with cubed or sliced meat in a rich gravy and the creamy sauce is lightened with parsley and some delicate sprigs of parsley. Use tomato sauce for veal, curry for lamb, delicate cream sauce for ham, mushroom chicken and a brown sauce of stock for beef.

This only suggests a few of the many dishes made effective by ring mold service. Others will follow another time.

Salmon Noodle Ring.

Noodle Ring—Two tablespoons butter; 2 tablespoons flour; 1 cup milk; 1-2 teaspoon salt; dash of cayenne, black pepper, paprika; 1-2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce; 1 package noodles, or 1-2 cups (uncooked); 2 eggs. Salmon Mixture—Two tablespoons butter; 1 small onion, chopped; 1 small green pepper, chopped; 2 hard-boiled eggs; 1 can small peas; 1 small can mushrooms; 1 can salmon; cream sauce.

Prepare noodle ring. Melt butter, add flour and milk when smooth, add seasoning, noodles and egg yolks beat on in light. Fold in stiffly beaten whites. Pour in well-greased ring pan and bake in pan of hot water in moderate oven until firm. Turn out and fill center with cream mixture, garnish with hard-boiled eggs and paprika. While noodle ring is cooking, saute onion and pepper in butter until golden brown. Take off stove and add mushrooms cut in pieces, salmon and peas. Steam over slow fire, adding 1-4 cup cold water of tender peas are cooked in. Cover and allow to heat. When hot and noodle ring ready, fold in the cream sauce and fill ring.

Judge Flays Customs Guard For Brutality

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—(UN)—A customs guard accused of black-jacking a physician in an argument that resulted from possession of two one-ounce bottles of whiskey, was severely criticized Thursday by Magistrate Ford, who held the guard in $5,000 bond on a charge of felonious assault.

The case developed on September 11 when Dr. George A. L. Irwin and three friends were leaving a pier after seeing off travelers aboard the White Star liner Olympic. A customs guard approached and asked if any was carrying liquor.

Harry Jones, one of the party, replied by exhibiting the little bottles which are manufactured more as souvenirs than as actual whisky containers. Jones then was arrested and Francis P. McCarthy, another guard, was sent for.

Upon McCarthy's arrival Dr. Irwin protested at the arrest of his friend and at the height of the quarrel, it was testified, McCarthy drew a blackjack and struck the physician repeatedly. Dr. Ritter Ansel, another physician who was in the quarter, testified that when he had identified himself and attempted to administer aid to the injured man McCarthy kept him away with a revolver.

Magistrate Ford was visibly angry as he listened to the evidence. He imposed a nominal $2 fine on Jones for possessing the liquor. Then he dismissed the charge of interference with an officer lodged against Dr. Irwin. And, finally, he turned to McCarthy.

"It seems to me," said the court, "that things have come to a pretty pass when such a thing as this can happen under the 'sacred' law of prohibition."

"Here we have a former truck driver who represents Uncle Sam and he thinks a head should be clubbed over two drinks of whisky. It is an unwarranted assault."

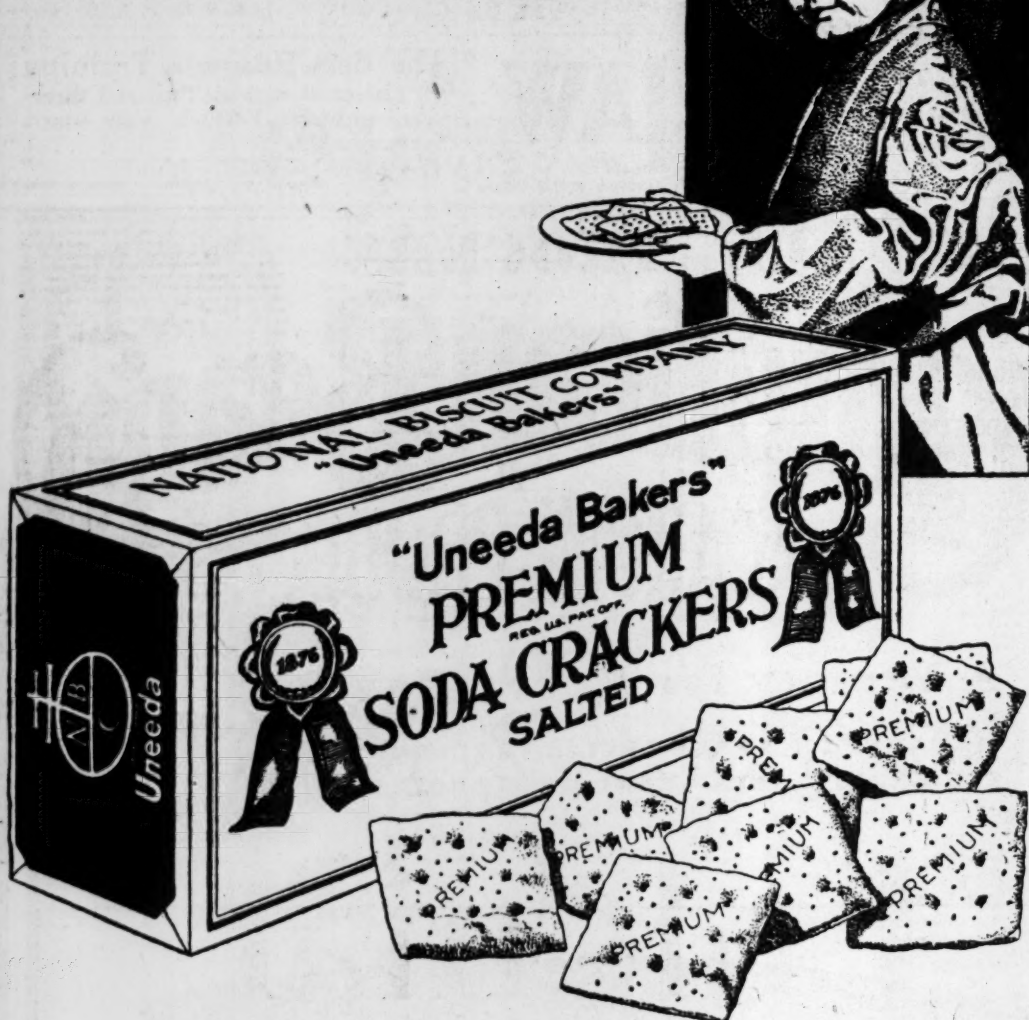

Baltimorean Named Head of Vet Bureau

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—(AP)—Colonel George E. Liams, of Baltimore, was appointed director of the veterans' bureau.

He has been acting director since the recent consolidation of veterans' activities under Brigadier General Frank T. Hines and previously had been assistant director.

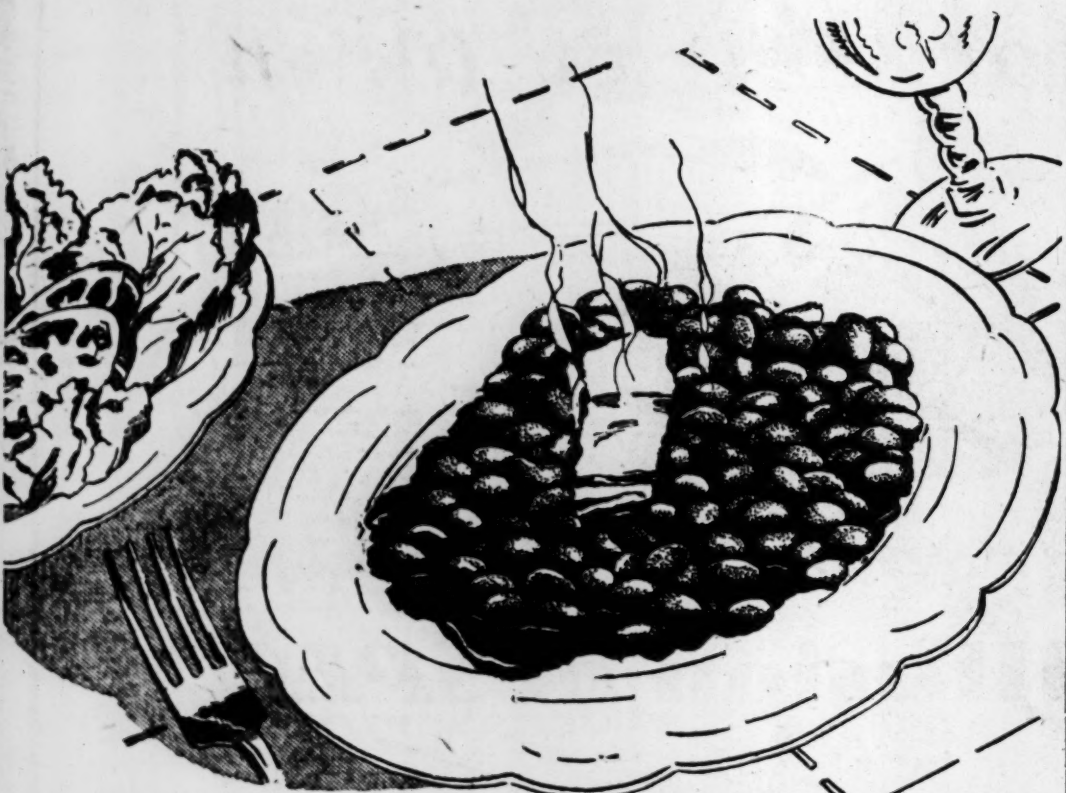

Hines has been with the bureau for 11 years. He was appointed by General Hines, the previous director.

WATER FINDS FISH AND MILK MIX

Ajax Wanted To Call Cop

BY WILLIAM O. KEY, JR.

The milk of human kindness turns sour and clabbers when its application is predicated upon misinformation. In other words, if you are determined to discourage a man from poisoning himself, it is essential that you know your toxicology.

A hungry-looking man walked into a downtown cafe Friday. His appetite was heroic and he made no bones about it. Studying the menu on the wall, he began ordering. He started at "Today's Special" and went right through the list to "Watch Your Hat and Coat."

Bye and bye a Hellenic sort of waiter with what later proved to be the same-sounding sort of disposition, brought him the main entrée—fish. And with a grunt of satisfaction the man began to eat. It was commonly referred to as feeding the face.

The hitch came when he ordered milk—sweet milk. "Bring me a quart of sweet milk," he said patiently, "with the fish, No."

"Listen, Ajax," the hungry man said, "I don't want you to prescribe for me. Bring the sweet milk."

"It will keep you," Ajax pointed out, "the sweet milk and the fish. I think he's right," said a patron on the hungry man's left. "I've heard of several fellows lots of times. Ajax, the sweet milk."

Boozed up by the other customer's support, Ajax was adamant.

"It is against the police law to give the sweet milk with the fish," he objected.

The gleam in the diner's eye became brighter.

"Listen, Ajax," he said in a dead-level voice. "I am a doctor and a lawyer, and if it's necessary I'll become a chemist and a prize fighter. Bring the sweet milk."

Ajax finally brought the sweet milk, and stood at a distance as if he expected to see a very desecrating corpse fall to the floor at any moment.

Only in this case Ajax was disappointed. The man chased a furtive black bean around a side dish, ate a slab of pie, and walked out in apparently the best of health.

Just in case Ajax might have been half-way right, we checked up. Dr. John P. Kennedy, city health officer, said the waiter had an inventive mind with regard to the law of serving milk and fish, while an eminent Atlanta physician pool-pooched at the idea of any kind of milk and fish being anything but healthful.

Two Women Slain

On Minnesota Road

VIRGINIA, Minn., Sept. 19.—(AP) The bodies of two women, with bullet holes in their heads, were found on a country road several miles south-west of here late today. They were identified as Mrs. John Auglen, about 43, and Mrs. Mabel Hoey, about 37, a widow.

Police were asked to aid in the search for Victor Kettunen, about 40, whose automobile was found abandoned with blood stains on the running boards and two bullet holes in the top.

Investigators also disclosed blood stains on clothing found in Kettunen's room.

Discovery of the bodies was made by deputy sheriffs, who were led to the spot by a friend of Kettunen's who knew of the latter's frequent visits to the place where he, Mrs. Auglen and other friends often had gone swimming.

It was the belief of authorities the shooting had occurred in Kettunen's car.

HARRY L. STEARNS, SR.,

TO BE BURIED TODAY

Civic, Fraternal and Retired Real Estate Leader Dies Early Friday.

Harry L. Stearns, Sr., former prominent real estate figure and for 40 years a leader in civic and fraternal affairs in Atlanta, who died at his home, 807 Peachtree street, N. E., early Friday morning, will be buried in an afternoon.

Services will be held from the residence, with Bishop John D. Wing, of the South Florida diocese of the Episcopal church, officiating. Services will begin at 2:30 o'clock and interment will follow in West View. The following pallbearers will serve: Dr. Frank K. Boland, Cobb Caldwell, Roy Collier, Henry Grady, George P. Moore, Thomas J. Peoples, J. D. Rhodes and Trammell Scott.

Mr. Stearns, who was 69 years of age, died shortly after 2 o'clock Friday morning, following a relapse of the previous evening. He had been in declining health, which had forced him to retire from active business, for about a year.

A native of Columbus, Ohio, Mr. Stearns came to Atlanta in 1890 at the age of 20 and began a career in real estate, looking to the growth and improvement of Atlanta as a southeastern center. After a few years in other ventures he entered the real estate field, in which for many years he was associated with George P. Moore. Later he acquired large holdings for himself and devoted his time to their care.

SAYS RUSSELL'S PLAN IS UNCONSTITUTIONAL

Carswell Manager Declares
W. & A. Properties Could Not Be Sold for Payment of State Debt.

Sale of the useless properties of the state-owned W. & A. railroad to secure funds for the payment of back due appropriations, as proposed by Richard B. Russell, Jr., is declared unconstitutional in a statement issued Friday by Judge R. N. Hardeman, campaign manager for George H. Carswell. He also challenges Russell to propose a better plan than that advocated by Carswell which calls for the reallocation of the automobile tag tax.

The statement follows:
"Some weeks ago I made the positive statement that I would not permit any dodging of the sole issue in the gubernatorial campaign.

"Mr. Russell continues to talk about his platform. Nobody in Georgia has ever seen one. He has indulged in many glittering generalities. State Indebtedness.

"Georgia owes five millions of dollars for 1929 and 1930. Nearly three and one-quarter millions of this is due to the common schools, the remainder to the veterans, the insane asylum, the Alto sanitarium, and the university system.

"This obligation must be met. The ways and means to do it is the paramount and sole issue in this campaign. It must be met with money and not with promises. There isn't any escape. It means increased taxes, or finding available funds already raised by the state.

"In the last several speeches by Mr. Russell, he has said two things: First, economy in government. What business on earth, state or otherwise, can save in a few months enough to pay a debt of five million dollars? If you cut off all the salaries at the capitol it could not be paid for years to come.

The W. & A. Property.

"He insists in every speech that his platform calls for the sale of the useless properties of the W. & A. railroad. I thought when his attention was called to the plain mandates of the constitution, he would not continue to fool and mislead the people of Georgia.

"I quote this constitutional provision again, in substance: 'Whenever the W. & A. properties or any part thereof or any other public property belonging to the state is sold, the proceeds must be applied to the bonded indebtedness of the state and not otherwise.'

"The people of this state certainly will demand of a candidate for governor that he offer something definite and tangible.

"Mr. Russell knows, and every thinking man in Georgia knows that if Russell is elected governor of Georgia he will, of necessity, to cover this deficit, have to find new sources of revenue, which means increased taxes or finding some new commodity or business to tax. Let Mr. Russell say which one.

Would Favor Better Plan.
"We have said and still maintain that we think of the remedy that it is practicable and feasible to use for one year only the tag tax of five million dollars and pay the debt.

"We have time and again challenged Mr. Russell to state plainly and distinctly what he proposes to do about it. The only thing he has ever said cannot, as a matter of constitutional law, be done, and he knows it.

"The fund he says he will take is not allocated by law but dedicated by the constitution.

"Any justice of the peace knows that it is the utmost folly to say that the legislature of this state, having legislative enactment, within the terms of the constitution appropriated any of the state's revenues to a named department has the same power under that that it can appropriate it to any other department of the government.

"There is not a self-respecting lawyer in Georgia who will question for a moment the right of the general assembly to now appropriate the tag tax fund to this debt of the state."

Rivers Speaking Dates.
E. D. Rivers will speak at Swainsboro, Millen and Graymont-Summit today in interest of George H. Carswell, Judge Hardeman announced.

Judge Hardeman also said that letters were being received daily from supporters of John N. Holder in the democratic primary September 10. This is also true of those who voted for James A. Perry, he said, adding that "we welcome them all. We are making a fight for certain principles and fighting right out in the open; our agreement with Mr. Rivers, signed in open conference, was immediately made public. There is nothing in it that would not stand the light of day."

"And the people appreciate the fact that we have taken them into our confidence and resent the fact that the Holder-Russell combination is denied, where every man who comes into contact with the organization of the former chairman of the highway commission knows where that support is going."

RUSSELL SAYS JOBS
PROMISED BY CARSWELL

DUBLIN, Ga., Sept. 19.—(Special).—Directing attention to the needs of the state and declaring that "an alliance which already has promised useless jobs in return for political support" can never supply these needs, Richard B. Russell, Jr., candidate for governor, addressed Laurens county people here tonight.

"The combination of the candidacies of Rivers and Carswell offers less hope to the people of Georgia for relief from the present factional rule than was offered by either of them as an individual," Mr. Russell said.

"Machine politicians evidently thought such a combination might be helpful politically, but I am unable to conceive how such an alliance can possibly benefit the people of Georgia. The... after all, are the ones whose best interests should be protected.

"We are greatly in need of a reorganized and simplified government, but an alliance which has already promised useless jobs in return for political support will never give it to us.

"We need to install a program of economy in government expenditures, but we will never achieve this from a combination which uses tax money to further its political fortunes.

"We need an equitable tax system, but a man who believes in our present unjust system will not help us get this needed reform.

"The parents of school children are entitled to relief from the exorbitant prices charged for schoolbooks, but they will never secure it from a governor who would owe his election to the backing of the schoolbook trust and its agents.

"We need honest and clean government, devoted to the progress of Georgia, but cannot hope to secure it from the little clique which has controlled the election of governors for many years and who have hampered every administration with their trafficking in political jobs and selfish advice.

"It is unreasonable to expect the next administration to give any better service to the state if it is controlled by the same faction that has dominated Georgia politics so long. Georgia's hope of progress lies in the destruction of factions. One faction was forever destroyed September 10. The remaining faction, of which Mr. Carswell is the candidate, will be removed from power on October 1.

"The people are determined to have a change. They will complete the good work already half finished, and again take the government in their own hands."

J. I. Kelly Delivers
Speech for Russell

JONESBORO, Ga., Sept. 19.—(Special).—John I. Kelly, of Lawrenceville, addressed a crowd of Clayton county farmers today in the interest of the candidacy of Richard B. Russell, Jr., for governor, saying that "Dick Russell will not make any campaign promises beyond telling you that he will do what he conceives to be the right and fair thing."

"Mr. Russell brings the voters of the state a record so clean that none of his opponents, in all their devious turnings and twistings, have been able to produce a single reflection against it," he declared Mr. Kelly.

"His fight has been directed, not against persons, but against ring rule and factional politics, those foster parents of control by special interests and corruption. Fighting alone, unsupported by any group of political wisecracks and unopposed by any great campaign fund, Mr. Russell will give us an administration unhampered by factional dissension and unfettered by political bonds. He demonstrates a degree of courage which has never been shown by any candidate, for he has dared throw a challenge into the teeth of those whose hands have always wielded the magic wand in Georgia politics. This challenge, founded on truth and right, has been the rallying signal to thinking citizens of Georgia, and they are flocking to the banner of Russell, whose vigorous fight has invoked admiration.

PRIMARY OFFICIALS MUST BE VOLUNTEERS

State Executive Committee
Without Funds To Pay
Managers and Clerks.

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.
Democratic executive committees in all counties in Georgia Friday were informed by G. E. Maddox, state party chairman, that managers and clerks for the second primary October 1, must be volunteers as the state committee has no funds with which to meet this expense.

Chairman Maddox said the second primary is required by law and is not a rule of the democratic party in the state. He said that while the run-off is law, no provision has been made by the general assembly of Georgia to care for the expense of the run-off.

The state executive committee, Chairman Maddox said, will provide the ballots and tally sheets to managers and clerks in the precincts, but can not meet further expense.

The chairman estimated that the additional expense of the primary would be approximately $20,000 and to divide such an expense between the two candidates for governor, Chairman Maddox said, would be too great a burden.

"The only suggestion the committee can make," said the chairman, "is that democratic committees in the counties of the state arrange for holding the election by calling for volunteer managers and clerks in their respective jurisdictions."

Receiver Will Sell Night Club's Assets

Assets of the Red Top Nite Club will be sold by Paul Ginsberg, receiver, under a consent order signed Friday by Judge G. H. Howard, of Fulton superior court, in continuing the receivership.

The receiver was appointed on the petition of Mrs. Sarah Donald, who brought suit against her partner in the night club business, Mrs. M. I. Booth, in an effort to recover money alleged to have been advanced by the plaintiff.

C. P. Goree Divorce Action Is Dismissed

A divorce suit instituted by C. P. Goree, assistant United States district attorney, against Mrs. Coralee Goree, whom he married in 1923 in Athens, has been dismissed by the plaintiff, it was revealed Friday in Fulton superior court. The suit was filed last April. Mrs. Goree several days ago was involved in an automobile accident at Clayton and is at liberty under bond pending trial.

tion throughout the length and breadth of the state.

"Mr. Russell, too clean and fine and honest to appeal to those whose unclean hands seek to hold their grip on the state's government, has aroused the enmity of the interests and the old ring bosses. I want to warn you again that this combine between Carswell and E. D. Rivers, a defeated candidate, can mean no good to the people of Georgia. These men have attempted to sell the birthright of Georgia voters, but Dick Russell will never let them get away with it."

Plans for Coste-Bellonte Reception Near Completion

Mammoth Parade, Luncheons and Sight-seeing Trips Are Arranged for Frenchmen Who Flew Atlantic.

Atlanta plans for the gala celebration of the visit of Dieudonne Coste and Maurice Bellonte, French transatlantic heroes, on a good will tour of America after the first successful Paris-to-New York air voyage, were nearing perfection Friday following a meeting of the committee heads in charge of the affair.

The famous fliers will arrive in Atlanta October 6 and will remain here October 7. They will be extended Atlanta's most hearty welcome and will be guests of honor of the entire city, including the half dozen boroughs and the several unincorporated districts making up the municipality.

At the meeting held Friday afternoon at the city hall, Mayor I. N. Rogstad presided, and preliminary plans were considered, with a probability that a mammoth parade will be planned in order to give all Atlantans and Georgians who may visit Atlanta for the occasion an opportunity to see the "heroes of a thousand dangers."

Great Welcome Planned.

Not since the welcome which was extended to Colonel Charles Lindbergh, soon after his successful flight from America to France, has Atlanta made such an effort to extend a more hearty welcome.

Civic organizations, flying clubs and every other facility at the disposal of those in charge of the affair will be formed into a solid mass of welcome. Horns will blare, whistles will shriek, confetti will fly and a general carnival atmosphere will prevail in the South Gate City, all combining to make the event the most pretentious in Atlanta's annals.

In addition, there will be a triumphal march, and luncheons, dinners and sightseeing parties. Georgia's most historic spots in close proximity to Atlanta will be visited. No stone will be left unturned to "repay in a small degree the fine good will which was given Lindbergh when he swooped down on Le Bourget field, near Paris, and to cement the feeling of friendship which exists between the

Rain Soaking Georgia; Due Here Today

Rain, which all but passed up Atlanta Friday for the neighboring cities of Albany, Bainbridge and Rome, is due to play a return engagement here today, C. E. von Herrmann, the official weather prophet, said Friday. There is even a prospect of a regular, old fashioned downpour if the gulf storm moves this way, he said. Bainbridge had 1.73 inches of rain, Albany 2.00 inches and Rome had 2.20 Friday, reports to the Atlanta station indicated. Temperature for the day in Atlanta ranged between 63 and 78 and the variation will be about the same today.

Conan Doyle's Will Benefits Spiritualism

LONDON, Sept. 19.—(P)—Several bequests to further the cause of spiritualism were made in the will of Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, creator of Sherlock Holmes and ardent propagandist of spiritualistic beliefs. The will is entirely in the late author's handwriting and was drawn up by himself in May of this year.

Legacies of 100 pounds each were bequeathed to the Spiritualistic Alliance of London and the National Spiritualistic Union of Manchester. The Psychic College will receive 200 pounds. The sum of 100 pounds also was left to the spiritual community which holds its meetings at Grosvenor hall, Wigmore street, and a like amount was left to David Gow, editor of Light, a spiritualistic magazine. The Psychic Gazette received 50 pounds.

"If I have not left more to promote this cause," Sir Arthur wrote, "it is because in my lifetime I have been able to devote considerable sums to this end and because my successors will, I know, follow my example in combating materialism and endeavoring to infuse fresh vitality into the various religions of the world."

Several personal bequests were made, including 50 pounds to the Authors Club, of which Sir Arthur was one of the leading supporters, "to be used for the greater comfort of the members."

The sum of 500 pounds, to be paid at once, was bequeathed to Lady Doyle as well as all household property and effects. An elder daughter, Mary, will receive 2,000 pounds. The residue of the estate, after all bequests are made, was left half to the widow and half to be divided among three younger children, Denis, Malcolm and Jean.

The total value of the estate is not yet known as inquiries regarding the sale of Sir Arthur's books in various parts of the world must be completed before the figure can be ascertained.

Tennessean Arrested For Slaying Father

DYERSBURG, Tenn., Sept. 19.—(P)—Clint Snyder, 38, farm tenant accused of killing his father-in-law, Lee Prince, 50, and wounding his brother-in-law, Robert Prince, 10, because of the estrangement of his young wife, was arrested today and charged with first degree murder. The wounded boy was in a hospital here tonight.

An all-night search ended at Union City, Tenn., where Snyder went in an automobile after the killing. He was arrested there and returned to the Dyersburg jail this afternoon. Prince, a tenant on the farm where Snyder lived, was killed by a shot fired through the window of his home. Mrs. Prince said that after her husband was killed Snyder came to the door, fired into the house and shot Robert through the abdomen and chased two other children who escaped. They ran nearly two miles to a telephone and summoned officers.

Mrs. Prince fired a shotgun at Snyder and frightened him away when his ammunition gave out, she told officers. She said she darkened the house when he returned after chasing the unarmed children.

Snyder and his wife, mother of a baby, separated recently. Neighbors said he complained the Prince had persuaded his wife to place three of his children by a former marriage in an orphanage.

Youngest of Capones Allowed To Go Free

CHICAGO, Sept. 19.—(P)—The youngest of the Capones went free today, his record still clean.

Judge W. V. Judge dismissed charges of disorderly conduct and violation of the vehicle license laws and let Matthew, 21-year-old brother of two "public enemies"—Alphonse and Ralph Capone—go without penalty.

Matthew was picked up by detectives who found him on his way to a sylvan license plates. They accepted his $150 bond on charges of disorderly conduct and driving without city or Illinois tags.

"This youth is not one of the 26 public enemies," said Judge Damron. "There is no evidence that he was disorderly, and a man is entitled to drive in Illinois with an out-of-state license for a period of 60 days. Capone has been in Chicago only 30 days."

Matthew has been a student at Villa Nova College, Philadelphia.

73-Year-Old Princess Weds Cousin of King Alfonso

LONDON, Sept. 19.—(P)—Princess Marie Charlotte Constance De Broglie, aged 73, was married to Prince Louis Ferdinand D'Orleans, Bourbon Infante of Spain and cousin of King Alfonso, in the London register office today.

The bride, who is the widow of Prince Amedeo De Broglie, recently was victorious in the French courts when her relatives sought to postpone her marriage on the grounds of the disparity in the ages of the two. He is 42 years old and son of the Infante Eugenia of Spain.

At that time the princess declared in court: "It is a monstrous insult. I am not insane simply because I am in love. I am not a silly, sentimentary girl. I know my own heart. I want a little happiness before I die."

The wedding, intended as a secret, was a ten-minute affair. The prince and princess looked radiantly happy as they left the dingy little civil office after the satisfactory ending of their long and stormy engagement.

The bridegroom, once reported engaged to Mrs. Mabelle Gilman Corey, one-time Broadway beauty, was reported to have broken with her early this year, at which time Mrs. Corey left her chateau near Versailles and took an apartment in Paris.

The lawsuit of the princess' relatives was left to David Gow, editor of Light, a spiritualistic magazine. The Psychic Gazette received 50 pounds.

Several personal bequests were made, including 50 pounds to the Authors Club, of which Sir Arthur was one of the leading supporters, "to be used for the greater comfort of the members."

lar and cuffs and a black hat trimmed with white embroidery. As the prince helped his new wife into a taxi after the ceremony he remarked:

"I believe it is considered lucky by the English people to be married in the rain."

Regarding himself, the bridegroom asserted, "I am not an adventurer. I have an ample fortune of my own. I am a royal prince and a grandee of Spain and do not need the princess money."

"My attachment for the princess goes back to my boyhood days. For 30 years I have been fond of her, some people would say that the difference in our ages is an insurmountable barrier. But that is our own affair. And it is our own romance. We are fond of each other. We decided to get married. That is nobody's business but our own."

U. S. DIVORCEE SAYS ENGAGEMENT ENDED.

Mrs. Mabelle Gilman Corey, divorced wife of a Pittsburgh steel man, on June 26, 1929, issued a statement saying her engagement to Prince Louis was "absolutely finished, and I have nothing more to say on this subject."

The princess' dissatisfaction over details of the marriage settlement which the former actress was willing to make with him was understood to have caused the interruption in their romance.

Less than a month later the princess purchased the Villa Bellevue, on the Corso Victor Hugo, Genoa. Mrs. Corey visited Genoa July 9, and registered at the Miramare Palace hotel. This started the story all over again of their impending marriage.

Meanwhile friends of Mrs. Corey said she had made a flying trip to San Remo, where the prince had balked at accepting a mere $1,000 monthly as pocket money from his prospective bride, stating the engagement was over so far as he was concerned. Mrs. Corey then returned to her chateau near Paris, but her sister, Mrs. Thomas, remained in San Remo, talking things over with the Spanish nobleman.

Among the early figures quoted in the Corey-Bourbon negotiations besides an allowance of $12,000 a year, was a lump sum of $200,000 to be turned over to his relatives in the event of Mrs. Corey's death.

While Mrs. Corey remained in France the prince was prevented from visiting her, being barred from that country by an edict of the police. His royal cousin, King Alfonso, also barred him from Spain.

most daring robberies in Nashville's history today when they entered the south Nashville branch of the Fourth and First Bank and Trust Company shortly before noon and looted a cash drawer of approximately $2,900 in currency.

L. M. Wood, manager of the bank, said the men rifled the cash drawer after threatening him with a pistol and tying his hands behind his back. One of the men wore a taxicab driver's cap which had been taken from King Ayers, 21, driver for a Nashville taxicab company. Ayers said two men forced him to leave his automobile this morning. He said they entered it and drove away after tying his hands behind his back and stuffing a handkerchief into his mouth. The taxicab was abandoned in the shopping district later in the day.

Georgia Congressmen Hit Tariff Law, Farm Relief

Senator George and Representative Crisp Address Convention at Albany Which Renominates Cox.

ALBANY, Ga., Sept. 19.—(AP)—Senator Walter F. George and Representative E. E. Cox and Charles R. Crisp addressed the Smoot-Hawley tariff law and farm relief in addresses here Friday before the second district congressional convention, which formally renominated Mr. Cox for his fourth term.

Mr. Cox in accepting the nomination declared that the republicans went into power on a promise of prosperity, and as a consequence must accept the responsibility of a condition that is far from prosperity. The second district representative predicted that the democrats will make marked gains in the congressional elections this fall and stand a chance to gain control of both houses, with chances of securing control in the lower house.

Senator George praised both Representative Crisp and Representative Cox, and assured the people of the respective districts that they could expect no tariff changes from either man. He characterized it as "economic illiteracy," and explained that it had proved a boomerang against the very interests that enacted it.

"The industrial plants of the United States are supplying 97 per cent plus of the manufactured articles used by the people of this country," he declared, "and at the same time have a surplus of 20 per cent that must be exported if sold at all. For the sake of trying to shut out foreign goods, we are selling our people, these greedy interests have courted the ill will and enmity of the people to the point that they must sell their 20 per cent surplus."

Senator George pointed out that a protective tariff is not a tariff on the interests of agriculture, and that Alexander Hamilton, father of the protective tariff idea, said more than a century ago that it was a tariff on the interests of all that can be devised to equalize it with a tariff-protected industrialism.

Representative Crisp told how the special interests infested Washington during the time the bill was under consideration, and asserted that persons who went before the committee asking for reduction in rates received scandalous courtesy, while those who sought higher rates were received with open arms. He finally offered amendments on the floor of the house.

Moore, of McDonough, in the course of evangelistic work this summer, was conducting a series of revival services in a remote rural church in that county. While making his pastoral calls he went to see this family. As soon as they heard his name and saw him, the various members of the family began to tell him about his activities of which they had read in The Constitution. Later he discovered that they believed The Constitution to be the source of all reliable information. To verify any fact all that was necessary was "to see it in The Constitution, the Georgia Bible."

LEATHER DEPRESSION GREATLY EXAGGERATED

WAYCROSS, Ga., Sept. 19.—Reports of depression in the leather industry, which have been circulating with more than casual interest by Waycross and this section of Georgia, one of the largest hide shipping centers in the United States, are considerably exaggerated, it is revealed by official statistics just issued by the department of commerce, based on certified returns from 1,443,478 in July of 1929 there were 1,573,500 cattle hides (sides) made into leather, and in the same month of the present year there were 1,400,402, the figures reveal.

In July, 1929, there were 1,540,381 small, calf and kips made into leather, as compared with 1,439,478 in the same month of this year. These figures reveal a reduction of less than 10 per cent, which is considered as favorable in view of the fact that 1929 was a boom year in the leather business.

The shipment of cow hides, as well as sheep skins, a variety of animal skins, is an industry which brings an enormous revenue annually to this city and section.

MACON, Ga., Sept. 19.—(AP)—Mayor Glen Toole Friday issued a statement to the effect that the city would fight any efforts of the Macon Gas Company to obtain higher rates for natural gas than recently ordered by the public service commission.

Mayor Toole in his statement said the efforts of the company to get an increase in rate was a "clever, flim-flam game with which the company sought to pull the wool over the eyes of the people of Macon."

The mayor also said that he would oppose any increase in the rate for the first 1,000 cubic feet. He said heavy users would benefit for in some cases these extensive users would pay as low as 23 cents per 1,000 cubic feet.

Wells Asked for Recount Before Returns Showed Him Winner, Lost Then Won.

McRAE, Ga., Sept. 19.—(AP)—Under a ruling of the democratic executive committee of Tellico county, just made, T. J. Wells has been declared the nominee for state representative, the second change that has been made in the race.

On September 11 when the committee met to consolidate the returns attorneys for T. J. Wells requested a recount before the committee went into session and before the returns were consolidated. This was agreed upon by the committee and by both candidates, Mr. Wells and J. H. Clements. The consolidation continued, however, before the recount and showed that Mr. Wells was leading Mr. Clements by 30 votes. The recount which followed immediately showed that Mr. Clements was the winner by 83 votes. Mr. Clements was declared the winner.

W. S. Man, of McRae, attorney for Mr. Clements, and C. L. Shepard, of Fort Valley, representing Mr. Wells, appeared at the new hearing before the committee.

Mr. Shepard set up the claim that under the rules of the state committee the county committee had no right to enter into a recount of the votes, but should declare the result as shown by the returns from the various precincts.

The committee had entered into a gentleman's agreement to abide by the result of the recount.

The committee, by a vote of 8 to 5, to abide by the original report of the various precincts, which showed Mr. Wells had a majority of 30 votes over Mr. Clements.

Mr. Clements is not barred from contesting the result, but it is not known yet whether he will file notice of contest.

E. E. Williams, son, teacher of vocational agriculture at the rural Simmon Hill Model school, has a large class of adult farmers attending night school and these farmers are making more than a bale of cotton to the acre, with improved farming methods.

SON OF THE GODS

By REX BEACH

INSTALLMENT XXXVIII.

Alanna clung dizzily to the instrument; her mouth turned dry and she could utter nothing except broken and inadequate sounds; her ears began to roar until she completely lost what was being said to her.

"Wait! Please!" she managed to gasp. "I don't understand half of it. Say it over again, slowly."

"Sam is an adopted child, or practically that. Anyhow he isn't Lee Ying's son."

"I—can't believe it. How do you know?"

"It's the strangest thing. No wonder you think I'm raving. Well, a relative of mother's came to see us tonight, he's here now. His name is Daly, Peter Daly, and he knew your father when he was a police inspector in San Francisco. You see Lee Ying came from there and Cousin Peter knew him too. He says Sam was a foundling. Lee Ying picked him up on his doorstep when he was no bigger than your thumb. There's no mistake about it. That explains everything, doesn't it? I mean about Sam's looks and—Hello! . . . Hello!"

"Yes."

"Did you hear?"

"I think so. What does he say—Sam? Why hasn't he told me?"

"He doesn't know. I called his house a minute ago and he's out. Then I called you."

"Are you—sure?"

"About the news? Good heavens, yes!"

"That's why I'm so frantic to find him tonight. Peter's sailing the first thing in the morning and it would be dreadful if—Sam's off hitting it up somewhere, I suppose. No telling when he'll be back; maybe not until late, maybe not at all. He ought to know right away."

"Yes. Yes, of course. Father must know, too. . . . Could you come here right away and tell him?"

"I—I'm shaking so I can't hold on—Alanna did not remember who had the last word because for once she completely lost control of her emotions; she laughed and she cried, she stuttered and she choked; she found herself gabbling wildly at the telephone even after she had replaced the receiver on its hook."

"That mental upheaval did not last long, but it served to galvanize her into something like her old self and she began to dress for the street, almost before she realized why. Tears were still flowing and she was talking aloud when she faced her mirror and pulled her hat down. Sam was white! This nightmare had ended. She'd find him. He was probably at that place on Riverside drive and, thanks to her father, she knew exactly where it was. She must hurry! Why did those tears keep streaming? Nothing to cry about now. Why, she was a poor wet sponge. Out all night making whoopee with those dance-hall girls, eh? Indeed! She's snatch him away if she had to wreck the place. It wouldn't be the first time she—Yes, and if he ever dared to touch another girl, she'd—she'd fix him. The disolute wretch! The darling! Who were those female warriors who rode out and seized their men and brought them in across their saddles? Amazons!"

Her father's circumstantial description of that Asiatic club enabled her to find it without difficulty and she was admitted readily enough when she arrived there. The smiling Oriental on the door told her that Sam Lee was inside.

From the floor above came a babel of voices and the sounds of a restless, moving crowd. There was a reception room at the right of the entrance hall, which was now used as a smoking lounge, and there several Filipinos were grouped around a white girl; they were talking animatedly. Alanna paused in the doorway and looked in; they turned eager faces towards her and when she moved on towards the stairway a couple of them followed her.

An orchestra started playing, the dancing floor was filled with couples when the visitor mounted to its level; she pressed forward until a Japanese in dinner clothes halted her. There was an air of authority about him and she rightly assumed him to be the manager.

"Hello!" he said. "You desire seeing me?"

"Yes. I'm looking for Sam Lee."

The fellow eyed her inquiringly. "Ah! You friend of Mister Sam Lee? You acquainted with Mister Sam Lee?"

Alanna nodded impatiently, eagerly she scanned the moving throng. Her pursuers from the smoking room were at her side now and both men were asking her to dance; she ignored them and spoke again to the manager:

"I must see him at once. Tell me where he is."

"What you come here for? Maybe you representing police department? Everything here is conducted excellently."

"No, no! I'm a friend of Mr. Lee's and I must speak to him."

"So? Well, I don't see him tonight."

"But I'm sure he's here. The man at the door just told me—"

"Mister Sam Lee is not here."

This conversation had been carried on not without difficulty, for Alanna's Filipino admirers were insistent and they continually interrupted her; other patrons, too, were attracted by her appearance for she was pretty, she was young, she was new. Several men, not all of whom were Filipinos, spoke to her, there sprang up an eager rivalry for her favor. Alanna was accustomed to servility from Asiatic men, but these fellows were anything but servile; they were not even polite; they almost fought over her, and she was crowded this way and that. They were indignant in look, in speech and in action and a strange drunkenness possessed them. She began to feel utterly helpless and more than a little bit frightened. The proprietor was plainly suspicious of her and her appeals only evoked a shrug; he gave her to understand that she could either behave modestly in a becoming and agreeable manner or get out. Then he made off.

Her heart was pounding horribly and it hurt her. She wanted to strike out at these grinning faces. She was growing faint, too, and there was no breath in her lungs. But she couldn't faint here. The very thought terrified her. What a fool she had been to come here; she should have sent her father or waited—A wave of blackness rose and threatened to overwhelm her. She fought it down. If she lost consciousness here, what would happen?

In desperation she stretched herself higher and looked over the crowd. She saw Sam almost at once; he was coming down the stairs from the floor above, but her thin cry was lost in the hubbub. He paused to light a cigarette and at that moment the music stopped; Alanna screamed his name again and pushed towards him. But her knees bent, her bones were like rope and her strength was feeble. Never mind, he had heard her; he was charging in her direction, casting couples aside, spinning them out of his way. She could see the top of his head. . . . She was growing numb and that black wave was rolling over her again. . . . No need to fight it down. Sam was coming.

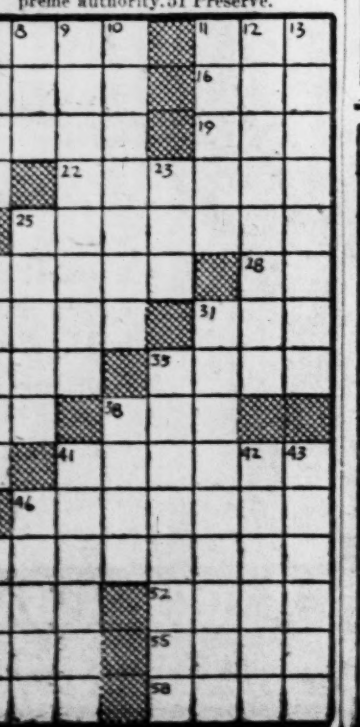

The room, the world was revolving, it was falling away and she floated over it. Higher and higher she was borne. Nice and comfortable up here riding on a cloud with Sam. Nothing to worry about with his arms around her. . . . Alanna sighed in exquisite contentment.

Exhibition of Soap Sculpture Will Be Shown at Museum Oct. 6

Soap sculpture, which was awarded prizes in the recent national contest conducted by the National Soap Sculpture Society, will be placed on view at the High Museum of Art, October 6, according to a recent announcement. The sculptured objects, which for the most part, were cut from small cakes of white soap, reflect all of the imagination, beauty of conception and design which is generally expressed through much more pretentious mediums.

The work of professional sculptors, amateur artists and school children will be included in this unusual exhibition, which, in view of its unique aspects alone, will attract large numbers to the High Museum. Those who have participated in similar local contests will find the show of special interest.

Other exhibitions will be shown at the museum in October. The pencil sketches of John Brandon, of Sacramento, Cal., many of which were done in California during the gold rush of 1849, will be placed on view at the museum October 1-15. Old shacks, homes of gold diggers and mining scenes, done with unusual fineness of feeling and regard for detail are among this collection of studies.

The exhibition of 21 water color flower studies by Marie Bommer, of New York city, are now being shown in the auditorium gallery of the museum. Among the most appealing paintings on view are "Tulips," "Reflections of the East," "Autumn's Bounty," and "Dancing on Time."

Miss Bommer, who is a co-worker with Anna Fisher, of the three women on national exhibitions in America, has exhibited widely, winning acclaim on every hand. The museum is open to the public from 9 until 12 o'clock and from 1 until 4 o'clock throughout the week; from 7 until 9 o'clock Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings, and from 3 to 5 o'clock Sunday afternoons.

McWhorter was shot six times, and wounded both of his assailants, police said. Both negroes were captured by police soon after the slaying of McWhorter. The attempt to rob McWhorter was said to have occurred as the inbound Irwin street-West Hunter one-man street car entered an underground, the negroes were the only passengers on the car.

W. E. Dunn Demands Dismissal of Price

On the heels of announcement Friday that all evidence in the hands of Solicitor General John A. Boykin concerning conduct of the office of William E. Price, city purchasing agent, will be furnished to the council committee which will begin a probe of that department early next week, William E. Dunn, Atlanta businessman, addressed a letter to the council committee demanding the immediate dismissal of the purchasing department or at least the immediate dismissal of Price.

Councilman Nelson T. Spratt, chairman of the purchasing committee, which will direct the probe under a council resolution, declared Friday that the first session of the committee will be held the earlier part of next week.

At that time all data in the possession of the solicitor's office will be made available to the committee and it will have access to all records and testimony which can be furnished.

The committee is under instruction to file its report to council at the October 6 session of council.

Dunn demanded the dismissal of Price because "of his admitted incompetency before a jury when he was tried and because he could not steer the palm grovers and grafters away from the department."

Markers Suggested For Sites of Accidents

Barnett, chairman of the commission said, "we believe that the psychological effect upon automobile drivers will more than compensate for these objections and that very probably many lives will be saved in the future by this practice."

The defendant on August 1 surrendered the property to the Collier estate by a quit-claim deed, the plaintiffs allege. The suit was filed by Attorney J. K. Jordan.

SHERLOCK HOLMES—The Musgrave Ritual

Holmes continued to relate the story Musgrave told him. "But this paragon of a butler, Brunton, has one fault," Musgrave said. "He is a bit of a philanderer. Since his wife died we have had no end of trouble with him. A few months ago we hoped he was about to settle down again, for he became engaged to Rachel Howell, our second housemaid. . . ."

"Nowadays, though—until yesterday, that is—Rachel has gone about like a black-eyed shadow of her former self. For Brunton threw her over and took up with the daughter of the head game-keeper. Rachel is of an excitable Welsh temperament. She had a sharp touch of brain fever after Brunton cast her off. . . ."

Musgrave's Story II.

"That was our first drama at Huddstone. Last Thursday night I couldn't sleep, so I arose to finish a novel I had been reading, but it had been left in the billiard room. Going after the book I had to cross a passage leading to the library. Imagine my surprise to see a glimmer of light coming from the library door. . . ."

"I had myself put out the light in the library and closed the door before going to bed. Naturally my first thought was of burglars. Our corridors are decorated with old weapons. I took down a battle-axe, and then, leaving my candle behind me, I crept on tiptoe down the passage and peeped in at the open door. . . ."

BURGESS CHILDREN'S STORIES

THE DOOR OPENS.

By Thornton W. Burgess.
Who quickest is in use of wit
To live doth prove himself fit.
—Old Mother Nature.

Impy the black chipmunk was the most puzzled chipmunk that ever lived. Not only had Mrs. Impy disappeared, but a room in the house had disappeared. The disappearance of the room was much more of a mystery than the disappearance of Mrs. Impy. Mrs. Impy might simply be outside somewhere; but a room could not be outside.

"What door?" asked Impy, who really was much perplexed.

Little Mrs. Impy almost lost patience. "For goodness sake, Impy, what is the matter with you? You just saw me open the door, didn't you?"

"Yes," replied Impy. "He left long ago."

"You're sure about that?" asked Mrs. Impy.

"If he hadn't gone, I wouldn't be here," replied Impy. "Of course I'm sure. I watched him open the door. But tell me, dear, how is it he didn't catch you?"

"Because I shut the door in his face, stupid!" replied little Mrs. Impy. "What door?" asked Impy, who really was much perplexed.

"Well, of course, that is the door I shut in Shadow's face," she replied. "You see, I was lucky enough to see Shadow first. I was outside and saw Shadow following a trail with his nose, and I knew that he was going to find the entrance to our home. I knew that I wouldn't have a chance in the world outside and that I had but one chance inside. So I hurried down into this storeroom and packed the entrance full of earth. Sure enough, Shadow came down here just as I thought he would. He came down, but he didn't get me."

"I'm so glad!" broke in Impy. "It would have broken my heart if he had caught you."

"Well, your heart won't have to be mended this time," declared little Mrs. Impy. "You see, he didn't even know there was this other storeroom. With the door shut, he couldn't even find the door, leave alone the room. So there I stayed until I was sure he had left. Now, let's go out of here and get busy."

"Get busy?" cried Impy. "Get busy doing what?"

"My goodness, Impy! I sometimes lose all patience with you," replied little Mrs. Impy. "We've got to close that outer doorway of ours and open another. Do you want Shadow the Weasel popping in on us while we are asleep? Now that he has found that doorway, he isn't likely to forget it."

PENSION FUND IN SIGHT,
EXTRA SESSION FADESWarrants Covering Yearly Payments to Veterans To Be Mailed October 1.

BY R. E. POWELL.
Likelihood of an extraordinary session of the general assembly faded considerably Friday when it became known that the state capital that warrants covering the entire $200 yearly appropriation to Confederate veterans probably will be in the hands of county ordinaries soon after the beginning of the final quarter, October 1.

Announcement previously had been made by Governor Hardman that the chances were good for the state to send to the schools before the end of this year warrants to provide for between 50 and 100 per cent of the appropriations for 1937.

Observers of fiscal and political affairs, including a number of state officials, would not predict with any definiteness that the looked-for special session has been abandoned by the governor but in the light of pension and school developments it was felt that the executive reported determination to convene the lawmakers soon after November 1 had diminished.

In addition to the stamp tax allocation for paying the pensions, there was drawn from the general fund at the last quarter $120,000.03 to supplement the special tax and this enabled the governor to issue warrants on the quarterly basis of $50 to each pensioner, the manner of settlement advised by the attorney-general some time ago.

Experts surveying the tax policy and the fiscal policy of the state are expected to complete their examination of revenue sources and of the administration set up about November 1. There have been many unofficial predictions that the lawmakers would be summoned, if Governor Hardman regarded these reports as of such importance as to warrant the extra session, soon after the general election November 4.

BANKING ACT PROBE

Investigation by the grand jury of a witness' correction of the 1927 amendment of the state banking act was continued Friday when additional testimony was heard. Attorney-General George M. Napier and Henry A. Beaman, DeKalb representative-elect, were called Friday to the solicitor-general's office.

Mr. Beaman is said to have made some investigation of the matter. John Wilson, secretary to Governor Hardman; T. R. Gress, assistant attorney-general; A. B. Mobley, state bank superintendent; A. T. Harris, of the secretary of state's office, and others appeared before the grand jury Thursday. The investigation is said to revolve around the matter of two lines into the act after it was signed by the governor, the lines having been left out by an error in engraving the act. The lines were placed back in the act under a formal ruling by the attorney-general after the error was discovered, it was said.

During next week the grand jury probably will hold special sessions to continue its investigation of Grady hospital. Other angles of the city graft investigation will also be gone into, it was said. Reports that the jury is investigating a bribe of $9,000 could not be confirmed.

Negro Is Indicted
For Attacking Officer

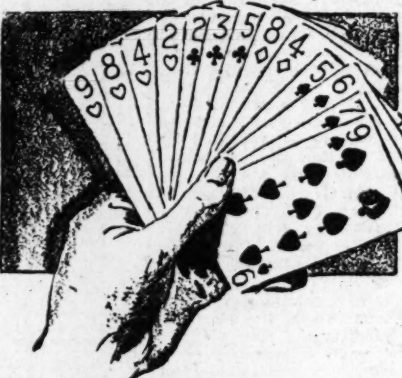

An indictment charging assault with intent to murder a police officer was returned Friday by the Fulton county grand jury against Leroy Benton, negro. Benton was charged with attacking Motorcycle Officer S. C. Wallace with a knife. He was indicted also for using obscene language in the presence of the officer's wife. In retelling the attack, Officer Wallace shot Benton in the chest and right leg, it was said.

PRIZE BRINGS GIRL
WEALTH FOR A DAY

BERLIN, Sept. 19.—(AP)—Miss Maiken Borze, a student of medicine from Copenhagen, Denmark, experienced being a millionaire for a day here.

She had won first prize in a contest sponsored by the Danish daily, "Politiken," which permitted her to spend one day in Berlin with all bills paid to her, how much, paid by the paper.

There was one condition, however: Miss Borze was not allowed to acquire anything which might be of value to her after her role of millionaire expired.

She therefore found the task of spending money somewhat difficult. A visit to Professor Albert Einstein, an airplane spin, a drive about town in a costly limousine, sumptuous meals at the most expensive restaurants, and attendance at a theater comprised her day's "extravagance."

Solon Requests Probe
Of American's 'Beating'

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—(AP)—Representative Hamilton Fish, of New York, today urged Secretary Stimson to make an immediate investigation of statements by Anton A. Ascolone, an American citizen, that he was beaten by Italian sailors on board the steamer Roma, because he refused to cheer for Premier Mussolini.

In a letter to the secretary of state, Fish said he was enclosing an affidavit by Ascolone and added that the facts were as stated: "It constitutes not only a brutal personal attack, but an affront to American citizens generally."

Fish said his position was that the government should protect the rights of American citizens wherever they might be and said it was more essential to deal firmly with a larger nation in the matters of this kind than with such countries as Nicaragua and Haiti.

"Should this incident be passed over without an investigation," Fish said, "it would only encourage similar attacks on American citizens in the future."

Author Asks Police
To Ignore Radio Law

The much-discussed radio curfew will be repealed at the next session of council, it was expected Friday, and Atlantans may play their radios between 11 o'clock at night and 7 o'clock in the mornings without fearing a complaint of neighbors.

Alderman G. Everett Millican, author of the ordinance under fire, backed off council, it was expected Friday, and Atlantans may play their radios between 11 o'clock at night and 7 o'clock in the mornings without fearing a complaint of neighbors.

Although the paper was aimed at semi-public radio loudspeakers, which "disturb whole neighborhoods," it was said that it was all inclusive and that it affected sets in homes.

The paper prohibited loud and continuous noises and defined them as noises which might be heard "across the street or on adjoining lots."

The accident occurred within a block of where Dr. Smellie was injured. Mrs. Barr was treated at a private hospital and returned to her home. Her injuries were said not to be serious.

DAY FINANCE

By R. L. BARNUM

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—It was pointed out in this column yesterday that the falling off in volume in stock trading in the smallest in years was understood by Wall Street to mean that a change in the price trend was near at hand with uncertainty as to whether the price movement would be up or down. Such uncertainty no longer exists.

Heavy selling of stocks witnessed today was started beyond question by professional traders using borrowed stocks. However, such professional bear selling was quickly followed by reselling of long stocks. There was real liquidation today.

When the selling of stocks was the heaviest the new fast ticker put into general service the beginning of this month dropped behind trading on the stock exchange floor. The inactive markets recently experienced the ticker frequently kept quiet, with the prediction frequently made that it would be many a long day before it again dropped behind the floor.

Cables received here to the effect that a revolution in Germany was possible were widely circulated by bearish traders in the stock market. The best opinion here, however, was that these cables were no cause for alarm, not the reason for the resumed selling of stocks. In such quarters the belief was expressed that today's selling reflected real liquidation by holders discouraged over the situation and outlook for general trade.

Wheat was again soft, causing more talk of curtailed buying power by farmers. Copper was sold by some holders at 103.8 cents, a new low for the year and the lowest in 30 years.

Considered Barometer.
Western Union's earnings have long been considered by Wall Street as an accurate indication of general business conditions. Today's July earnings statement of Western Union gave July gross at $10,888,000, against $12,468,000 a year ago, with net at $541,000, against $1,274,000 a year ago. For the seven months gross of $78,286,000 compares with $83,783,000 and net of $4,797,000 with $8,899,000. Apparently Western Union has had the same experience of many other companies in being unable to get expenses down to meet the shrinkage in gross earnings.

Kansas City Southern, the first of the railroads to report August earnings, makes a favorable showing. Gross of $1,858,000 compares with $1,907,000 and net of $245,000 with $325,000. For the eight months' gross of $15,332,000 compares with $14,548,000 and net of $3,577,000 with $2,985,000.

Bankers here in close touch with bankers in Germany were informed by telephone today in response to inquiries as to what the German situation was that while there had been some uneasiness and uncertainty following the election of last Sunday the business and banking interests of Germany were hopeful that normal conditions would soon be restored. It was stated that stocks had declined on the Berlin stock exchange but that there had been no thought of closing the exchange.

Directors of Republic Steel are scheduled to hold their postponed dividend meeting next Tuesday. It is understood that the $1 quarterly dividend will be passed. Earnings are down and the management has plans for doing some financing to raise additional working capital and refund high interest bearing bonds of subsidiary companies. With this financing ahead the directors, it is understood, are of the opinion that it would be best to suspend dividend payments. It is possible that this decision was influenced by talks with bankers expected to handle the new financing.

Hill New Low Price.
A new low price has been established daily for the 5-1/2 per cent German reparations bonds since 1st Monday, or when the results of the German election were known. On this market the daily decline has been fractional, a decline of 2 points occurred today on the London market, which closes as ours opens. The break in London was caused by reports in the British press that the German fascists which made even more sensational gains in Sunday's election than the communists, might attempt to seize the government. London cable reports that while informed opinion there remains unperturbed at the German political situation and outlook, heavy selling of the reparations 5-1/2 continued, 80 being touched today. There has been a drop of 6 points in this market from the offering price of 90 last June.

According to the official returns the fascists in Germany, who had only a dozen vote, in the reichstag before the election, now have 107, the communist membership has been increased from 54 to 70. The Hugenberg nationalists lost votes in the last election but they still have 41 seats in the reichstag, giving the three parties now causing uneasiness in conservative quarters a total of 124. As the total membership of the reichstag is 576, a combined vote of the radicals has the same experience of many other companies in being unable to get expenses down to meet the shrinkage in gross earnings.

Moreover, there is a question as to whether the radicals will vote together. Outside of Germany the national socialists have been commonly referred to as fascists. As a matter of fact the fascists and the socialists or communists are not far apart as far as the Argentine, Bolivia, Peru, the recent election in Canada and political unrest elsewhere throughout the world to existing economic stress caused by the depression. Outside of Germany the national socialists are now going on in commodity prices and general trade from conditions created by the World War.

Informal opinion here and abroad credits the results of the German election as well as the revolution in Argentina, Bolivia, Peru, the recent election in Canada and political unrest elsewhere throughout the world to existing economic stress caused by the depression. Outside of Germany the national socialists are now going on in commodity prices and general trade from conditions created by the World War.

Carryover Cotton Grade, Staple Shown

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—(AP)—The department of agriculture reported today that of the 4,530,583 bales of cotton carryover on August 1, the grade was lower and the staple shorter than that of the carryover a year ago.
Of the total carryover on August 1, which included some of the 1929 crop, the reporting board said 3,416,240 bales or 75.2 per cent of the total was tenderable, which compared with 3,735,400 tenderable bales a year ago, 82.3 per cent of that carryover.
The total untenderable aggregated 897,343, or 20.8 per cent, as against 714,343, or 15.7 per cent, a year ago. The tenderable grade over 1-1/2 inch totaled 2,066,600 bales, or 61.8 per cent, compared with 1,251,000 bales, or 35.9 per cent a year ago. Tenderable cotton over 1-3/4 inch totaled 749,700 bales, or 17.4 per cent compared with 496,800 bales and 23.4 per cent a year ago.
In Cotton untenderable grade totaled 450,500, or 10.4 per cent compared with 220,100 and 10.4 per cent a year ago. Cotton untenderable in staple totaled 268,400 bales and 6.2 per cent as compared with 74,000 bales and 3.5 per cent a year ago. Cotton untenderable in both grade and staple aggregated 378,400 bales and 8.5 per cent as against 80,600 bales and 3.5 per cent a year ago.

Eaton Is Grilled In Steel Hearing

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, Sept. 19.—(AP)—Cyrus S. Eaton, Cleveland capitalist, was subjected to a rigid cross-examination today on his pronounced opinion that the merger of Youngstown Sheet & Tube Company with Bethlehem Steel Corporation was economically unsound and that an appraisal of the Bethlehem properties should have been made prior to the Youngstown stockholders.
During the entire session Newton Baker, of defense counsel, was virtually in debate with the witness on what Baker termed the argumentative nature of his views and several times the exchange of questions and answers amounted to a verbal clash.
Baker brought up the old Trumbull Steel-Republic Steel merger, which was negotiated when Eaton was a director of both companies, to pursue his attack on the matter of an appraisal in a merger like the Youngstown-Bethlehem deal.
The testimony revealed that an appraisal of the Trumbull properties made by the American Appraisal Company, fixed the assets value of that concern at $20,000,000, which was increased to $37,000,000 through plant additions after the appraisal was made. Eaton admitted that after the merger was consummated the asset value of Trumbull was written down to $24,000,000.

Six Conference and Eight S. I. A. A. Elevens Open Season Today

CARDS INCREASE LEAD OVER ROBINS AND CUBS

FLORIDA

Gators Have Senior Team With No Delusions of Grandeur—Will Be in First Flight.

Editor's Note: This is one of a series of articles on football prospects at Southern Conference institutions written by Ed Danforth, sports editor of The Constitution, after viewing the squad in practice. Another follows tomorrow.

By Ed Danforth.

Far be it from your correspondent unduly to alarm those alumni whose favorite football teams have a game scheduled with the University of Florida this year, yet to pass Florida casually by as just one of the good teams would be a mistake. It might be a costly mistake.

Florida has a team of seniors with no delusions of grandeur and a burning ambition to get somewhere. There are several junior and sophomore reserves of more than ordinary promise. Back of them is a coach whose principles of football teaching are sound, and who has firmly grounded the Notre Dame system at Gainesville.

Florida lost but one conference game last year; and they lost that game to Georgia Tech through their own over-anxiety to score a touchdown-a-minute or something. They defeated six other conference teams, including the University of Georgia, at a moment when Georgia was a very good football team. If Florida loses more than one conference game this year, here is one observer who will manifest well-bred surprise. That is the nearest approach to a definite prediction that has been made in this series of reviews.

Seniors in Fine Mental Attitude.

Just how a team of senior players can promise to do so well is explained by looking back into the 1929 campaign. Then the Gators had several over-publicized stars in varsity berths and just behind them were just as many juniors of great ability who had little or no chance to play.

Those reserves of first call last year are this year's seniors. Their names are as unfamiliar to the casual reader as any sophomore's. After all this waiting they have their chance to cake-walk. Watch their slipper-dust.

Two Proven Stars Remain.

So far as the reading room at the club can observe with the bloodshot eye, only two outstanding stars of 1929 have places on the Gator eleven this year.

One is captain "Red" Bethea, as good a halfback as can be found in this or any other conference. The other is Jimmy Steele, as good a guard as can be found, etc., etc.

But around these two canny, capable football players are other seniors of proven ability who have never experienced the thrill of winning a championship.

Ben Clemmons and Frank Clark are two senior centers of the light scrappy type. Jimmy Steele and Wilbur James are senior guards who will grade with any pair in the field. Bill McRae is a third senior guard. Carlos Proctor and Dale Waters are senior tackles who were good enough last year and have had a year of seasoning. Jimmy Nolan, Dashwood Hicks and Flash Vickery—three seniors ends—with Ed Parnell, a junior, will look after the flanks. In addition Coach Bachman is grooming Joe Hall, the big decathlon champion, as a possible end. Joe is a senior who took up football late in life and is wild about the game.

Ed Sauls Comes To His Own.

Behind the line are Red McEwen, a senior quarterback, who knows what it is all about and is a clever passer; Captain Bethea and Ed Sauls, senior halfbacks, and Link Silsby, senior fullback.

Permit a digression here to talk about Ed Sauls. Last year Sauls was a fullback, standing behind Captain Gawnthorn. Ed got the gridiron leavings. He came in late after the first string had sewed up the contest.

Goodness (I believe) was hurt for the Harvard game last year and they drafted Sauls to play fullback. With one day's rehearsal at signals, he played a brilliant game in the stadium. His performance was a revelation to Coach Bachman, and from that day Sauls has been a right halfback.

Sauls weighs 197 pounds. Get that! He runs like a deer and shakes his hips in a style not unlike Jimmy Brewster, who used to run at Tech Flats. He is as light as a feather on his pigskin and as tough as the alligator from which his team takes its name. Sauls is a fair passer, a murderous blocker and a good defender against passes.

And how the man can punt! He kicks them far, yet so high that a fat man in gum boots could get down and be waiting for the safety man to catch the ball.

Sauls is playing with a spirit he never had before, and if he does not become one of the leading halfbacks in the conference then I'll promise never to first-past-the-post on any of them.

Gators Play No Easy Schedule.

With a smart lead in Red McEwen running the team, a good punter and blocker in Link Silsby at fullback and two such halfbacks as Bethea and Sauls, there is no earthly reason why Florida should not be feared plenty this fall.

The Gators play a hard schedule that is admirably arranged with four tough conference games fairly well scattered. They open with Southern, then play North Carolina State and Auburn in succession. They play University of Chicago October 18 and return home for a game with Furman.

Then come the first two heavy conference dates—Georgia in Savannah and Alabama at Gainesville. Clemson comes next at Jacksonville, then Georgia Tech in Atlanta and finally Tennessee—none other—in Jacksonville.

Reserves in Fair Numbers.

It takes reserves to play such a schedule and Florida is fairly well supplied. Knight is a sophomore center; Dedge, Toph and Ashkenazy are spare tackles; Turner and Sanderson are extra ends.

Al Rogers, an agile sophomore, who can pass with either hand, punt well and twist along the field like a rabbit, is the first substitute quarterback. They are trying to call him a "second Clyde Crabtree," but in spite of that handicap he seems to be getting along fine. Sherrill, Brennan and Saunders are other quarterback candidates.

Behind Red Bethea are Homer Sayer, a junior, Perrine and Hartman. Behind Ed Sauls are Monk Dorsett, the well remembered junior halfback. Yancey and Emmelhainz. As substitutes for Link Silsby are Joe Hall (also an end candidate), Jenkins, Williamson and McClellan.

Spectators will feel kind of sorry for Florida when the team takes the field against Georgia, Alabama, Georgia Tech and Tennessee, for Florida looks a bit peaky beside those gigantic outfits. The team is just a few pounds under the average tonnage of the field this year.

But it is a team of about the average weight that delights old Knute Rockne—light enough to run 'em down and big enough to hurt 'em. The Gators are good first flighters this year. Make no mistake by rating them lower.

Berg May Avenge Petrolle Knockout

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—(AP)—The slugging of Jackie (Kid) Berg, the "perpetual motion" lightweight, and Billy Petrolle, of Fargo, N. D., in a ten-round bout in the Madison Square Garden on October 10, was announced today by Tom McArdle, matchmaker.

The pair met early in Berg's American campaign with Petrolle knocking out the English fighter.

Braddock Kayoes Gotham Heavyweight

BOSTON, Sept. 18.—(AP)—James J. Braddock, of Jersey City, knocked out Phil Mercurio, New York heavyweight, in the second round of a 10-round bout here tonight. In another round bout here tonight, Minneapolis heavyweight, gave away 22 pounds and beat Marty Gallagher, of Washington, to a decision.

SIX CONFERENCE ELEVENS OPEN SEASON TODAY

L. S. U. Meets South Dakota Wesleyan in Feature Game.

Louisiana State's battle with South Dakota Wesleyan at Baton Rouge today is the first of Dixie's many interconference challenges this season, and tops the south's opening day program of 12 contests.

With a veteran backfield in harness behind a none too strong line, the Louisiana Tigers must be at their best to trounce Wesleyan. South Dakota champions last year.

Five other Southern conference teams make their initial appearance against non-conference squads, while four Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Association outfits engage in family strife.

Two games of Paramount interest in the Carolinas find Josh Cody's Clemson Bengals pitted against Presbyterian college, and Billy Laval's fast and tricky South Carolina Gamecocks facing Erskine.

North Carolina State, making its debut under its new coach, John Van Liew, engages High Point in a night game at Raleigh.

In the Old Dominion, Virginia and Washington confer, and conference squads play Roanoke and Randolph-Macon at Charlottesville and Lexington.

Title hopes of a quartet of S. I. A. A. teams flutter in the breeze as the Citadel tackles Stetson at Charleston, and Wofford meets Newberry at Spartanburg.

Chattanooga, S. I. A. A. champions for two years, start their fall campaign against Murphreesboro Normal at Chattanooga; Howard faces Marion Institute at Birmingham; Davidson plays its annual contest with Elon at Davidson, and Emory and Henry opposes Guilford in a night game at Emory, Va.

Minor games between junior colleges round out the day's card.

American Sluggers Shine in Big Six

Lou Gehrig and Chuck Klein did practically all the hitting for the Big Six yesterday, with the American league leader very much in the van. Gehrig clouted his eighth homer of the year and three other hits in six tries, raising his average 3 points to .386. Klein hit two homers, his 37th and 38th, in four times at bat, increasing his mark 1 point.

The leader, Bill Terry, again dropped below the 400 mark as he failed to get a hit in four attempts. Babe Ruth, who had one hit, required six tries and he lost 3 points. Babe Herman and Al Simmons had a day of rest.

MARYVILLE, Tenn., Sept. 19.—(UN)—The 1930 football season in Dixie where they take their football and in large quantities, early and late, was ushered in tonight as Maryville College defeated Mars Hill 46-0 before a crowd of 2,000 that taxed the capacity of the stands.

Sir Thomas To Get Cup Despite Loss

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—(P)—At the suggestion of Will Rogers, Mayor James J. Walker, of New York, was receiving contributions of not more than a dollar apiece today from the general public to buy Sir Thomas Lipton a loving cup in tribute to his sportsmanship. The proposal, made after the final failure of the British sportsman's yacht Shamrock to capture the America's cup was presented by Rogers in the New York Times today and was taken up by other New York newspapers.

Rogers' notion of an inscription was: "To possibly the world's worst yacht but absolutely the world's most cheerful loser. You have been a benefit to mankind. Sir Thomas, you have made losing worth while." Mayor Walker said that inscription might need some smoothing but he offered to take charge of the fund, receive contributions and see that receipts were used to buy a loving cup for Sir Thomas from the American people.

The doubles final will be played Sunday.

TED GOODRICH KAYOES SMITH

Ted Goodrich, Atlanta's fistic favorite, returned to his old-time form when he stopped Ted Smith, Cleveland welterweight, in the third round of their scheduled ten-round bout at the Atlanta theater last night.

Smith had Ted worried in the first two rounds with a left hand that he used with uncanny swiftness and accuracy. It was with this same left-handed attack that Smith took the first and second rounds.

Goodrich finally solved the Cleveland boy's defense in the third round and dropped him with a straight right to the jaw for a short count. Smith rallied gamely, but Ted's barrage of rights and lefts was too much for him and he went down again, rising, but he would not stay down, although he was out on his feet, to have Ted run him into a corner and drop him for good with a series of punches to the head. Smith fought a smart fight in the first two rounds.

In the semi-windup Johnny Flynn, of Chattanooga, won a decision from Jack Taylor, Birmingham brawler, in eight rounds of fast fighting. Flynn hit Taylor in the short ribs with a hard right in the fifth round and Taylor went down claiming a foul. The boxing commission's doctor examined him and ruled that Taylor was not hit low and must resume the battle.

Young Trowbridge, Atlanta boy, and Pee-wee Harris, of Miami, fought six rounds to a draw. Young Simpson, of Macon, won a six-round decision from Pete Manos, of Atlanta. In the curtain-raiser Clint Townes, of Atlanta, after being dropped for a count of nine, got up and promptly sent Young Whitfield, also of Atlanta, down for the count. All this took place in the first round of their scheduled four-round bout.

A fair-sized crowd attended the show. It was announced that there would be another one next Friday night.

CHICKS RESUME SERIES TODAY AT FORT WORTH

Two Down, Southern Champs Seek Victory. Texans Are Wild.

FORT WORTH, Texas, Sept. 19.—(P)—Panther fans, 10,000 strong, will rally round Saturday afternoon for the first game of the Dixie series, the first game on Texas soil and the first sight most of the Texans get of the Memphis Chicks, Southern association champions, who are fighting with their backs to the wall. The Fort Worth Panthers, bearing the standard of the Texas league, twice defeated the Chicks on Tennessee soil, leaving the Tribes of Memphians forced to win four out of five contests if they are to capture the Dixie title.

Doc Prothro, the big chief of the invading Chickasaws, is far from doubtful as he surveys the prospects. "We will keep in there battling," he declared, "we know that other clubs have lost the first two, then we will win the Dixie series."

Those Chicks are strongest against right-hand pitchers, reports indicate. Manager Snyder will use a right hander, probably Left Stoner. Red Roberts is an outside prospect, but it looks more like Stoner, cunning curve ball artist, who has everything including plenty of courage for the crucial games.

With Stoner on the hill, McCabe will be ready for service Sunday and Dick Whitworth can go back Monday. The last two named hurlers pitched Fort Worth to victories in the first two games of the series played in Memphis. Prothro's choice is somewhat indefinite. He has a left-hander, Johnny Walker, with lots of speed. A couple of right-handers, Tony Welzer and Roscoe Shepherd, both well seasoned athletes, are available. It is probable that Welzer will get the nod, as he is rated as the smartest of the bunch. Memphis has decided it takes more brains than skill to turn back Fort Worth. Harry Kelly, ace of the tribe, having been slammed heartily as the Cots took the second game.

President Martin Off for Series.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 19.—(P)—About 100 Memphis fans left here tonight for Fort Worth, Texas, aboard a special train with John D. Martin, president of the Southern association; Thomas R. Atkins, president of the Memphis club, and other baseball officials to attend the Dixie series to be played in Fort Worth Saturday, Sunday and Monday.

Mike Sexton, president of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues, the supreme court of the minors, arrived here today en route to Texas and accompanied the Memphis delegation to Fort Worth. The Memphis Rotary Boys' band, 35 strong, also was aboard the train.

West Virginia Wins First Night Game

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Sept. 19.—(UN)—West Virginia University defeated the Duquesne University football team in the first major college game of the season under headlight tonight, 7 to 0.

The game was played before 20,000 fans, the largest crowd ever to see a Duquesne football game. A forward pass to Parriott inside the Duquesne five-yard line in the second quarter gave West Virginia the only touchdown.

The winners had the ball within a foot of the Duquesne goal in the first few minutes of the second half but failed to score.

The losers played West Virginia in even terms in the second half but could not get the ball past their opponents' 25-yard line.

Veteran 'Gator End Out With Injury

GAINESVILLE, Fla., Sept. 19.—(P)—Charlie Vickery, veteran letter end of the University of Florida football team, was injured today (Saturday) while keeping him out of practice at least a week and a half. Coach Charles Bachman reported today. Vickery was hurt yesterday during preparatory exercises.

He is the second 'Gator to go on the injured list. Frank Clark, star center for several seasons, has been in Jacksonville hospital all this week from injuries.

"Dash-Wood" Hicks has been shifted to end to bolster that strategic point, while hopes for center will be largely carried by two sophomores—John Knight and George Gunn.

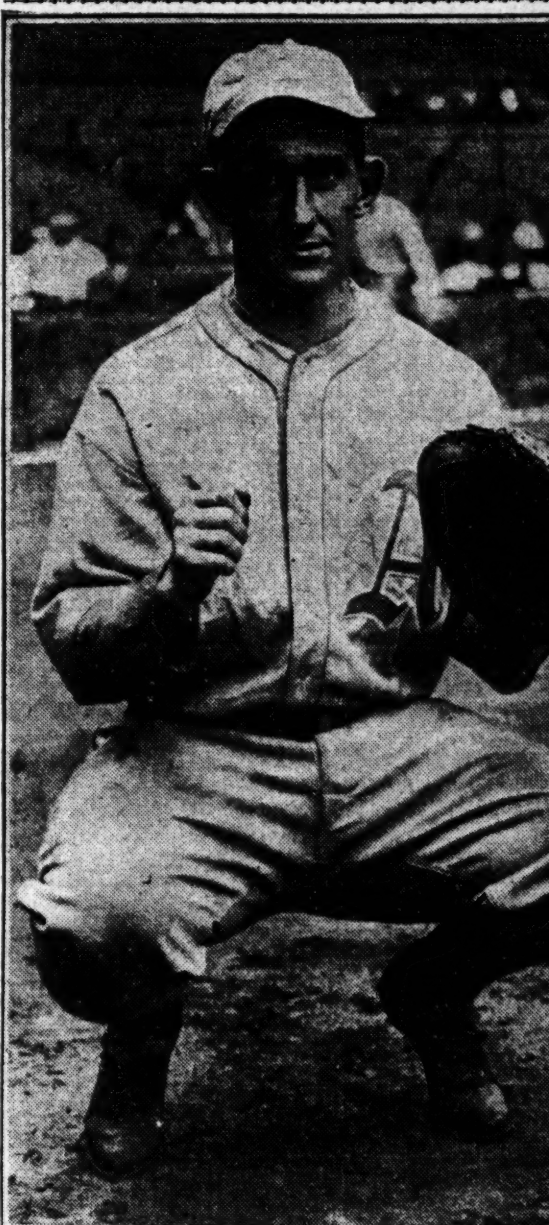

Collier To Give Trophy to Women

Mrs. O. B. Keeler, president of the Georgia State Golfers' Association for Women, announced last night that Barron G. Collier, of New York City, had given a perpetual trophy to be awarded annually to the club whose member was winner of the association tournament.

The trophy, Mrs. Keeler said, is similar to the cup given the Georgia State Golfers' Association for Men by Robert H. Martin, Atlanta automobile dealer.

The first annual tournament of the women's association began at Radnor Springs, Ga., October 6 and ends October 11.

Ace of the Backstops

Mickey Cochrane, whose mother named him Gordon, but who won the Irish nickname by his characteristic of keeping in the thick of the baseball doings, has won himself considerable fame as a catcher and swatman with Mr. Connie Mack's Athletics and has been a big factor in the easy march those same Athletics made to the top of the American league this season. Cochrane is off for a short vacation before the start of the world's series in Philadelphia on October 1.

Carolina Grid Rivalry Deadliest of Species

Teeming With Colleges, South Atlantic Sector Glows Yearly With Patriotic Fervor.

By Ralph McGill. There is rivalry and rivalry, of course, but the sort that flowers in the Carolinas is the most heated and vindictive one encounters anywhere. There are so many colleges in the Carolinas that one stumbles into one of them at almost every cross-road. They range from the magnificent plant at Duke to one or two small bricks with a few football players and a cheer leader.

The sword of Damocles hangs over the noggin of the Carolina coaches always and without ceasing. It matters not if Tech or Georgia is playing a rival in the "Sally" sector of the conference. If one of the state teams hands out a licking somebody's scalp is about gone or going. And herpicule won't save it. No sir; not by a jugful.

If South Carolina loses to Clemson or Furman there is enough gloom on the campus to slush over at the slight. If Clemson drops one to a Carolina team the atmosphere on the hill is funeral in the extreme.

There are any number of smaller colleges that rarely get their football teams in the headlines, and yet they turn out each year with tough ones to beat. And the stories they tell about each other!

There is one story going the rounds which the Carolinas are enjoying. Last season North Carolina was playing a rival in the "Sally" sector of the conference. The opposing team was trying a pass attack.

THAT PESKY JOHNNY! Johnny Branch, the North Carolina quarterback, came running in to intercept a pass. The receiver saw him, and realizing that it was impossible for him to beat Branch to it, ran in for the tackle.

Thinking fast, Branch held up his hand in the signal for a fair catch which provides a penalty for a tackler who tackles a man receiving a punt.

It was an outrageous thing to do, but it worked. The tackler checked his rush and watched while Branch took the ball in perfect safety. It was not until the shifty little Tarheel started running back with the ball that the deceived player realized how he had been duped.

That story was being up the fists in certain quarters.

CLASSIC RIVALRY. Clemson and South Carolina are great rivals, the more because Coker's Clemson eleven has defeated the Gamecocks in the past two seasons.

They have one of the most curious customs known to football. They play on Wednesday or Thursday of the annual fair week at Columbia, and the game gets started promptly at 12 o'clock.

Clemson's "layers" get their own Clemson food, Captain J. D. Harcombe, the culinary genius of the school, arranging for them to be fed the usual training food despite the fact that they are miles away from their own campus.

OLD CAROLINA CUSTOM. No one knows exactly why the game begins at midday. It seems to have been an old South Carolina custom, and they have never stopped.

ST. LOUIS RALLY IN SEVENTH NETS 7-TO-3 VICTORY

Chuck Klein's Two Homers Almost Win for Phils.

By George Kirksey, United News Staff Writer.

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—(UN)—The St. Louis Cardinals moved nearer the National league pennant today by winning the first of a five-game series from the Phillies at Philadelphia, 7-3, and increasing their lead to two and one-half games over the idle Brooklyn Robins.

The Chicago Cubs retained a slim chance at the flag by winning from the Braves at Boston, 5-4, and going into a tie with Brooklyn for second place, two and one-half games from the top.

If the Robins and Cubs win all their remaining games, the Cardinals will have to win only three out of eight games left to play to tie for the flag and only four out of eight to clinch the pennant.

The Cards came from behind with a characteristic rally to beat the last-place Phillies. With the Phillies leading, 5-2, by virtue of Chuck Klein's thirty-seventh and thirty-eighth home runs of the season, one of which came with a runner on base, the Cardinals staged a five-run rally in the seventh inning to win the game.

FISHER STARTS RALLY. George Fisher, one of St. Louis' stellar pinch-hitters, started the rally with a single off Hurst's chest. Eventually the Cardinals got the bases filled with two out and then Hafey doubled, driving in two runs. Watkins' single accounted for another run and Mancuso's double brought in two more.

A ninth-inning rally at Boston enabled the Cubs to stay in the race. With the score tied, 4-4, Hartnett doubled and scored on George Kelly's single.

Not that it had any bearing on the pennant race, but the New York Giants scored an impressive 7-0 victory over the Cincinnati Reds at the Polo Grounds. Bill Walker, who has been when the Giants needed him and good when they haven't, pitched a two-hit game.

ALL IN A NUTSHELL. With Brooklyn swinging back into action tomorrow, the Cardinals by a double victory over the Phillies and defeats for Brooklyn by Pittsburgh and Chicago by Boston can just about clinch the pennant.

If the Cards win a double-header and the Robins and Cubs lose, St. Louis will have to win only two out of its remaining six games to tie for the pennant.

It became known today that Jimmy Wilson, St. Louis catcher, is not likely to play in the world series even if the Cardinals win the flag as he is injured his ankle in a game with the Giants series. With Wilson out, Gus Mancuso, who leads all National league catchers with a batting average of .380, will catch all the Cardinals' games. Earl Smith, recalled from Rochester, is not eligible for the world series.

Gene Cook, Atlanta Amateur, Wins Georgia Open Meet at Athens

BAGS 294 CARD TO LEAD FIELD IN EASY STYLE

John Oliver, Valdosta, Second With 305 in Strong Field.

ATHENS, Ga., Sept. 19.—(AP)—Gene Cook, young Atlanta amateur, today won the first annual Georgia state open golf tournament here with a 72-hole medal score of 294. Cook, a former state amateur champion, took the lead at the finish of the first round yesterday and was never threatened. He fired a 79 in the first round this afternoon to add to his opening three round scores of 75-69-71.

In winning the open, Cook defeated the best professionals the state could muster in addition to a half-dozen of the leading Simon Pures. His second and third rounds were especially brilliant, the sparkling 69 in the second round setting a new competitive course record on the Athens Country Club links, where the tournament was played.

Johnny Oliver, of Valdosta, another prominent amateur, came second with 305 by virtue of a great closing round of 71, under par. Cook had led the field by 16 strokes at the completion of 54 holes but his comparatively poor 79 on the last round together with Oliver's great rally cut his final advantage to 11 strokes. Cook was 13 strokes ahead of the nearest professional.

Hugh Kirkpatrick, Savannah money player, turned in third low score among the 40-odd players but his card of 307 was the highest posted by a professional. He won the $100 first prize.

Charles Gray, Jr., Augusta professional, came second among the pros with 310, while Fairley Clark, another Savannah pro, followed with 312. J. Carter Jackson, Athens professional, had 315. Morris Michael, Macon amateur, posted a 317, and Sid Clark, Fort Benning professional, had 320. Gray, Clark, Jackson and Clark won the other cash prizes for this professional, amounting to $75, $50, $40 and $25.
